Pool convicted of murder and manslaughter

CHARLESTON — Verdicts of guilty to second-degree murder and manslaughter were returned against Louie Pool, 80, of East Prairie by a Mississippi County Circuit Court jury about 4:35 p.m. Wednesday, following deliberations of slightly more than three hours.

Concluding the two-day trial, the jury comprised of eight men and four women, assessed Pool's punishment at 12 years in custody of the state Department of Corrections — including 10 years on the murder conviction, which involved the death of Enoch Reeves, 54, of rural Charleston, and two years for manslaughter, in connection with the death of Mary Mitchell, 56, of East Prairie.

Pool had been charged with first-degree murder in the Christmas Day, 1975, shooting deaths of Reeves and Mrs. Mitchell.

Judge Marshall Craig set Oct. 12 as the formal sentencing date for Pool, who remained free on bonds totaling $40,000.

State witnesses called by Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Graham included:

Everett Mitchell of Mountain Grove, son of the deceased woman; Wallace Reeves of Charleston Route One, brother of the dead man; the Rev. Dallas Carpenter; Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom and Terry Mark Baxter, a representative of the Envinromental Trace Substance Research Center at Columbia.

Pool and two character witenesses, Burl Moody, a former East Prairie resident who now lives at Sikeston, and B. D. Upton of East Prairie, were called by the defense.

The bodies of Mrs. Mitchell and Reeves, along with Pool, who had been shot twice in the upper region of the left chest, were found about 9:30 a.m. Dec. 26, 1975 at the Mitchell home on North Street in East Prairie by Anber and Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie.

Ivie was unable to testify during the trial due to ill health. However, his testimony from a Feb. 11 preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court was read to the jury.

According to Abner, who lives next door to the Mitchell home, he observed Pool's car and Reeves' pickup truck had been parked overnight at the home sometime before 9 a.m. Dec. 26. Neither vehicle had been moved since snow had fallen the previous day, Abner said.

The officer related that he called the home about 9 a.m. and again some 30 minutes later without receiving an answer, and at that time called Ivie to go with him to investigate.

Going to the home, Abner said they knocked on the door and were told by Pool, "Come in, it's not locked."

Describing the scene, Abner said the body of Mrs. Mitchell was lying across the front doorway and had to be pushed aside for them to enter. Pool was also lying in the floor near Mrs. Mitchell's body, and the body of Reeves was found in a kneeling position in front of a couch with his face in his hands.

Continuing, Abner said that when Pool was asked what had occurred, he replied, "I shot Mary. We got into a scuffle and he shot me. He dropped the gun and I picked it up and shot him."

The officer said Pool talked coherently while telling them what had happened and that there were no signs of a struggle in the home. He added that they did not determine where Pool was shot and that he had on a mackinaw jacket which did not have visible blood stains.

Testimony by Coroner McMikle showed Mrs. Mitchell had been shot twice, once in the center of the back and again about six inches below the right arm pit with an exit wound across the body under the left armpit. Reeves had been shot once in the forehead, just above the right eye.

McMikle said Reeves, in his opinion, was killed instantly and that it was possible that Mrs. Mitchell lived a short period of time.

The next witness, Sheriff Simmons, testified that he was called to the Mitchell home about 9:15 a.m. Dec. 26. Leaving the home about 11 a.m. to go to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, Simmons said he placed Pool under arrest for investigation of murder, read him his rights and took a statement.

Relating that the man was in physical pain, Simmons said Pool was coherent while making his statement. The officer said Pool told him he had gone to the Mitchell home about 9 a.m. Christmas Day and Reeves was there. According to Pool, the two had argued, then Reeves shot Pool twice and dropped the gun, which Pool picked up and used to shoot Reeves.

Mrs. Mitchell, according to the statement, was shot by Pool when she ran into the room. Simmons said Pool told him, "I went crazy. I didn't mean to kill her."

Submitted as evidence by the state was a .38-caliber pistol used in the shooting; two shirts, one of which was an undershirt given to Simmons at the hospital after being taken off Pool; pictures of the murder scene and the bodies; and gun residue test kits taken by Deputy Grissom.

Black smude-like stains found on the front of the outer shirt was determined to be residue of lead particles from gunpowder, according to Longwell, who identified the shirt as those given him for chemical analysis by Sheriff Simmons. According to Longwell, tests showed the shots were fired from a distance of one to six inches.

According to Mrs. Kinsolving, she observed Pool's car pulled up to Mrs. Mitchell's home about 9:30 a.m. Christmas day. She said Pool left after some 20 to 30 minutes and returned about 15 to 20 minutes later, going into the home carrying a paper bag.

Mrs. Mitchell and Pool reportedly had dated for about three years, prior to December 1975 when she began dating Reeves.

Results of the gun residue tests made on the hands of Pool at the hospital and Mrs. Mitchell and Reeves at a funeral home were explained by Baxter, who analyzed the tests at the research center at Columbia.

According to Baxter, the tests revealed that Pool had recently fired a gun, determined by the amount of barium and antimony (elements found in ammunition) found on his hands. The tests were also indicative that neither Reeves or Mrs. Mitchell had fired a gun.

Testifying in his own defense, Pool related that Mrs. Mitchell had called him Christmas Eve and talked about three-quarters of an hour, telling him during the conversation that she was going to have Christmas dinner with Reeves and his mother.

Going to the home Christmas Day, allegedly to ask for the return of a stereo and ring he had given her, Pool said Mrs. Mitchell was not "very well dressed" when she asked him to come in.

Reeves, according to Pool, grabbed a gun from his coat

House may sustain veto

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — House speaker Richard Rabbitt, who has reversed his position and now supports the veto of Gov. Christopher S. Bond, says there is little chance that veto of revisions in the campaign law will be overriden by the House today.

The Senate, where the bill originated, has already mustered the two-thirds vote to override the veto, but Rabbitt said a straw poll of House members has led him to believe "we don't have the votes to override it."

Meanwhile, Bond, meeting with newsmen just prior to the opening of the House session, said he plans to make exemption of minor candidates from economic disclosure proivsions of the law a top priority when the legislature meets in regular session next January if the veto is sustained.

His proposed revision of the law would exempt from economic disclosure requirements candidates who spend less than $500 to seek an office with a salary of less than $1,500 a year. It is similar to a measure he backed last spring.

"The important thing is to get a simple exemption passed before the spring elections," Bond told newsmen. "The (Missouri Elections) commission could then concentrate on the enforcement of the disclosure requirements for major offices."

After that immediate problem is resolved, Bond said he would propose a "major revision" of the campaign law and revision of the state's conflict of interest legislation.

On Wednesday, the Senate voted 23-10 to override the veto after more than an hour's debate, despite warnings of opponents that an override would be "self-serving" for state lawmakers.

Under the proposed bill, requirements that all political candidates must disclose sources of income over $500 would be repealed. Instead, only candidates spending more than $500 in a campaign would be required to disclose income sources over $6,000 and business interests worth more than $10,000. The disclosure provisions are intended to reveal to voters potential conflicts of interest that a candidate may have.

Bond had urged a change in the law to lift the economic disclosure burden from candidates for minor nonpaying offices. But he said the bill sent to his desk last spring went much further and would have enabled candidates for the legislature to elude economic disclosure as well.

He also claimed the proposed disclosure limits, which now apply to the governor and lawmakers, reveal little about potential conflicts of interest.

Sen. Albert Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, who led the successful Senate drive to override the veto, said the way the two year old law has been interpreted has been completely different from what the voters were told about it when they adopted it by a 4-1 margin in 1974.

"It was ill-written," he said. "What they voted on and what they got were two different things."

Columbia Sen. Larry Marshall, one of five Republicans voting to override the veto, said the economic disclosure provisions were "merely a sidelight" of the law, whose main purpose is the disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures.

That is the same position that has been taken by the Missourians for Honest Elections, which led the drive for voter approval of the law. MHE officials have called for complete removal of the economic disclosure provisions because of the great problems they have caused, saying the legislature should enact a comprehensive conflict of interest law.

Citizens want better protection

EAST PRAIRIE — The police department came under fire Wednesday night when about 30 residents, many who have had their homes burglarized recently, met with the City Council requesting adequate and improved police protection.

The visibly upset group told the council it was time something was done to prevent the increasing number of break-ins even if it meant changing the police department from top to bottom.

Admitting that the present force is "lousyt", city officials cited a lack of city funds as the major problem in securing trained personel for the department. All were in agreement that changes were needed, adding that they would do anything within reason to improve the system.

The group was informed that it would probably be necessary to increase costs of city services, raising merchants licence fees and perhaps a property tax increase to bring in additional revenues.

One of the citizens present complained that when police were called by a property owner they came with red lights and sirens blasting, alerting any would be burglar before the officer arrived.

Other criticized the officers for failing to investigate until two or three days following the report of a break-in, adding that the shieriff's department was not notified unless the property owner did so himself.

Dissention within the department, failure to enforce curfew laws, officers continualy sitting in the police cars at downtown intersections instead of patrolling were also cited by the complaining citizens.

The council said if new officers were employed, if would be stressed that they should be qualified and have former police training.

Following about an hour of discussion, the council told the group it would stand behind City Manager Frank Carter on any decision he might make toward improving the situation, even if drastic measures, including firing of personnel, were taken.

Red leader Mao dies

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung, who led the Communist takeover of China in 1949 and dominated the world's most populous nation for 27 years, died early today, Peking announced.

He was 82 and had been failing for many months. His death immediately threw open the question of who would succeed him and was expected to intensify the power struggle that has shaken Peking intermittently for years and that flared up with renewed intensity after Prime Minister Chou En-lai's death.

There has been no designation of his successor as chairman of the Chinese Communist party, the country's most powerful post, which he had held since 1935.

Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, said Mao died at 12:10 a.m. — 12:10 p.m. EDT Wednesday — "because of the worsening of his illness and despite all treatment, although meticulous medical care was given him in every way after he fell ill."

Many American and foreign visitors to China in the past year said Mao had looked frail and had trouble speaking. There were reports that he had suffered a stroke.

In June, Chinese officials said he had stopped receiving important foreign visitors "because he is too old and too busy." In Chinese photographs and television broadcasts recently Mao looked pale and feeble.

After studying films of Mao's television appearances, medical experts said earlier this year he showed all the symptoms associated with Parkinsons' disease — slowness of movement, set facial expression and slurred, indistinct speech. The disease is a progressive affliction of the central nervous system also known as shaking palsy.

There have been indications for some time that Mao was not in day-to-day control of the country.

Petitions distributed for ambulance district

BENTON — Thirty-six petitions are being distributed throughout the Scott County area in an effort to establish a county ambulance district.

J.A. Chronsiter of Chaffee, director of the North Scott County Ambulance Service, said Wednesday the petitions are seeking signatures of 2,000 county residents in support of establishing an ambulance district and asking that the matter be placed on the ballot for the April city elections in the county.

Chronister said 11,000 signatures are needed to get the question placed on the ballots countywide.

If the ambulance district is placed on the ballot and approved by the voters, it would have the authority to levy up to 10 cents per $100 assessed property valuation for operating costs.

At present, the North Scott County Ambulance Service is being subsidized by the Scott County Court at the rate of approximately $8,000 a year.

The Missouri Delta Community Hospital Ambulance Service in Sikeston also has an agreement with both the Scott County and New Madrid County Courts for subsidies. The Scott County Court has been providing approximately $15,000 a year for the past two years for the Sikeston ambulance service under this agreement. The agreement was for a five-year period and has three more years to run before expiring.

When the North Scott County Ambulance Service started, the County Court purchased two ambulances at a cost of $9,000 and one ambulance for the Sikeston service costing $3,500 for which the state provided a larger portion of the cost.

Pool convicted of murder and manslaughter

CHARLESTON — Verdicts of guilty to second-degree murder and manslaughter were returned against Louie Pool, 80, of East Prairie by a Mississippi County Circuit Court jury about 4:35 p.m. Wednesday, following deliberations of slightly more than three hours.

Concluding the two-day trial, the jury comprised of eight men and four women, assessed Pool's punishment at 12 years in custody of the state Department of Corrections — including 10 years on the murder conviction, which involved the death of Enoch Reeves, 54, of rural Charleston, and two years for manslaughter, in connection with the death of Mary Mitchell, 56, of East Prairie.

Pool had been charged with first-degree murder in the Christmas Day, 1975, shooting deaths of Reeves and Mrs. Mitchell.

Judge Marshall Craig set Oct. 12 as the formal sentencing date for Pool, who remained free on bonds totaling $40,000.

State witnesses called by Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Graham included:

Everett Mitchell of Mountain Grove, son of the deceased woman; Wallace Reeves of Charleston Route One, brother of the dead man; the Rev. Dallas Carpenter; Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom and Terry Mark Baxter, a representative of the Envinromental Trace Substance Research Center at Columbia.

Pool and two character witenesses, Burl Moody, a former East Prairie resident who now lives at Sikeston, and B. D. Upton of East Prairie, were called by the defense.

The bodies of Mrs. Mitchell and Reeves, along with Pool, who had been shot twice in the upper region of the left chest, were found about 9:30 a.m. Dec. 26, 1975 at the Mitchell home on North Street in East Prairie by Anber and Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie.

Ivie was unable to testify during the trial due to ill health. However, his testimony from a Feb. 11 preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court was read to the jury.

According to Abner, who lives next door to the Mitchell home, he observed Pool's car and Reeves' pickup truck had been parked overnight at the home sometime before 9 a.m. Dec. 26. Neither vehicle had been moved since snow had fallen the previous day, Abner said.

McMikle said Reeves, in his opinion, was killed instantly and that it was possible that Mrs. Mitchell lived a short period of time.

The next witness, Sheriff Simmons, testified that he was called to the Mitchell home about 9:15 a.m. Dec. 26. Leaving the home about 11 a.m. to go to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, Simmons said he placed Pool under arrest for investigation of murder, read him his rights and took a statement.

Relating that the man was in physical pain, Simmons said Pool was coherent while making his statement. Mrs. Mitchell, according to the statement, was shot by Pool when she ran into the room. Simmons said Pool told him, "I went crazy. I didn't mean to kill her."

Submitted as evidence by the state was a .38-caliber pistol used in the shooting; two shirts, one of which was an undershirt given to Simmons at the hospital after being taken off Pool; pictures of the murder scene and the bodies; and gun residue test kits taken by Deputy Grissom.

Black smude-like stains found on the front of the outer shirt was determined to be residue of lead particles from gunpowder, according to Longwell, who identified the shirt as those given him for chemical analysis by Sheriff Simmons. According to Longwell, tests showed the shots were fired from a distance of one to six inches.

According to Mrs. Kinsolving, she observed Pool's car pulled up to Mrs. Mitchell's home about 9:30 a.m. Christmas day. She said Pool left after some 20 to 30 minutes and returned about 15 to 20 minutes later, going into the home carrying a paper bag.

11 hurt in SeMo

Eleven persons were injured -- two seriously -- in five area traffic accidents Wednesday and early today, according to the highway patrol.

Five persons were injured in a single- vehicle accident at 4:15 a.m. today .4 mile south of the Highway 77 interchange on Interstate 55 near Benton.

The accident ocurred when a southbound station wagon driven by David Beach Sr., 34, of Rochester, Mich., ran off the road and struck an emergency crossover.

Beach, David Beach Jr., 12, and Teresa Beach, 5, received minor injuries, while Meiko Beach, 40, of Rochester and Fumiko Hepburn, 37, of Memphis, Tenn., were seriously injured. All five were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Three persons were injured in a car-pickup truck accident at 11 p.m. Wednesday on a county gravel road six miles west of Hayti.

The patrol said a pickup truck driven south by Mark Allen Ward, 21, of Deering and a car driven west by Walter Jones Jr., 19, of Bragg City collided at an unmarked intersection.

Jones and Ward received minor injuries and Ward's wife, Sandra Ward, age unavailable, suffered moderate injuries. All three were taken to Pemiscot

CRIME: A NATIONAL DISGRACE

The 1975 crime statistics, just released by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, are enough to cause every American to hand his head in shame and to seriously question what is going on in the U.S. Department of Justice in Washington.

The statistics show that the rate of crime increased a shocking nine per cent more than in 1974, and 33 per cent more than in 1970. For the year 1975 there were 21 serious crimes committed every minute of the day, 24 hours a day. Violent crimes such as murder, forcible rape, armed robbery or assault to kill occurred every 31 seconds. There was a burglary every 10 seconds, a larceny- theft every 5 seconds, and a motor vehicle theft every 32 seconds.

In 1960, newspaper records show, people were deploring the "high rate of crime," and the crime rate stood at 1,887.2 for every 100,000 people. Last year there were 5,281.7 crimes per 100,000 people — an increase of almost 300 per cent (279.86 per cent, if one wishes to quibble).

What has happened to our nation since 1960? The 1975 statistics show that the greatest proportion of crimes were committed by youths; 26 per cent by persons under 18 years of age, 42 per cent by persons under 21 years of age. Well, in 1960 these kids were under 3 and 6 years old. What happened to them in those 15 yeas? What religious or moral training did they have?

What kind of schooling did they have?

Did their public education include the slightest suggestion of spiritual or moral content?

Did they become what they are today because, as many parents charge, of immoral and degrading material in school textbooks?

Did the rejection of prayer in school make them better people?

Unfortunately, the voluminous Crime Report of 1975—297 pages of statistical tables, charts, and fine print — gives not the slightest hint as to the answers to these questions. Every other aspect is minutely examined; their age, sex, race, geographical location, etc. — but absolutely no information is given to tell us what they were taught to believe in home, church, or school.

Millions upon millions of dollars are appropriated by the Congress each year for the Department of Justice. The money is appropriated to provide for the Constitutional guarantees that persons shall be secure in their lives and property. Yet for the past year, much of the time and attention of the U.S. Department of Justice and most of the headlines highlighted attempts by the Attorney General to indict members of the FBI for allegedly "violating the civil rights" of would-be bombers and self- styled Marxist Revolutionaries. The American people have a right to question whether we are getting our money's worth.

VISIBILITY FOR THE INVISIBLE

THE KU KLUX KLAN, some of its members say, has been reborn in a new image. There are various klan groups, of course. They all don't agree on every point. But one group recently incorporated in Mississippi. Another tried to march in a Boy Scout-sponsored Memorial Day parade in Davie, Fla. Like never before, klansmen are preaching nonviolence and patriotism.

The rhetoric, however, seems to spread like a smokescreen from burning crosses in the night. The other day in Pulaski, Tenn., where the United Klan was convening at the site of its 1865 origins, two of its leaders harangued against the FBI for years of harassment—"interfering with the private lives of American citizens."

It's no secret that the FBI infiltrated the klan and tried to disrupt and discredit its activities. The FBI, itself, made public last year the details of this part of its counter-intelligence program. At the same time, the klan can hardly complain that it was singled out for investigation. The FBI also was infiltrating the Communist Party, the Black Panthers and several other organizations. The far left got more attention than the far right. Disclosures about FBI spying already have resulted in a full and open debate at the highest levels of government and in new regulations to prevent future excesses. The klan doesn't really make a convincing victim.

All the klan's talk about legitimacy and its attempts to associate with the mainstream or normal processes of American life avoid the issue of the klan's substance and purpose. A Boy Scout official in Davie, where the Scouts canceled their march rather than walk with klansmen, put the matter in perspective. He said the klan's public image should be based on what it stands for, not whom it stands beside.

WHAT DOES IT stand for? Segregation and white supremacy, as always. Basic attitudes haven't changed. Gordon Galle of Picayune, king kleagle of the Invisible Empire of the Knights of Ku Klux Klan, Inc., said recently that the "new knan" would operate strictly within the law—"if (a member) goes out and shoots a nigger, he'll be on his own."

One would think that any organization in this country would try to obey the law. That's not much of a concession. The telling point of Galle's righteous proclamation is that "nigger"—a word that drips with as much hatred and bigotry as any in the American language—still remains the focus of the klan mentality. There apparently will be no concession made for that.

FUEL STRETCHERS

The locomotive pulling a string of cars was the first great transportation innovation to come out of the Industrial Revolution. The success of the railroad as a means of transport lay in the fact that, as one booklet entitled "More Miles to the Gallon..." puts it, the steel wheels of the train move over the steel rails of the railroad track with very little friction. Great loads can be moved with a minimum amount of effort and that means with minimum use of energy or fuel.

At a time when there is urgent need to minimize dependence on importation of high-cost foreign oil and conserve domestic supplies of petroleum, this fact of rail fuel efficiency assumes major importance. A study made by the National Science Foundation indicates that railroads use less energy in terms of British Thermal Units per ton-mile or passenger mile than any other form of freight transport except pipelines and less than any passenger mode except busses. For example, trucks were found to be four times as energy-intensive as railroads. A private research group, the Battelle Institute, reporting the results of their investigation, compared a line-haul railroad to a five-axle, heavy-duty diesel truck. Truck performance worked out to around 77 net ton-miles per gallon of fuel, as compared with the railroads' 280 net ton-miles, and that gives the rails a nearly 4 to 1 edge in efficiency of fuel use as compared with highway trucks.

In addition to this all-important matter of fuel efficiency, railroads can accomplish their job with minimum air pollution, minimum land use, minimum noise disturbance and with greater safety than any other type of vehicular or air transport. U.S. railroads must be allowed to realize their full potential as the heart of America's transport system. So far as transportation goes, no better investment could be made in the nation's future.

INDEPENDENCE AND ELECTRICITY

Electric power will play a crucial role in reducing U.S. dependence on insecure and costly supplies of oil and natural gas. It is highly versatile in the uses to which it can be put, and it can be produced from a variety of fuel sources other than oil--as, for example, nuclear, coal, hydro, geothermal and even the sun. This being the case, the ability of the nation's electric utilities to develop and build for the future is vitally important.

As things now stand, the financial strength of the industry depends on public and regulatory acceptance of increased rates for service. Inflationary increases in material and labor costs, not to mention high interest rates, have hit hard at every utility company's construction budget. It is virtually impossible to sell utility common stock to investors and that means no alternative to more bonded debt and high-interest rates. For those utilities with oil-fired boilers, a 400 percent rise in the price of low-sulfur Middle East oil has been a backbreaker. It is little wonder that one of President Ford's recommendations for energy independence included an increase in the investment tax credit for utilities from 4 to 10 percent and a change in the tax law to permit a deduction from corporate taxable income of dividends paid on certain types of preferred stock, which should logically be treated much as interest payments on a debt. If such recommendations as these are finally approves by Congress, they will help meet the electric industry's construction cost crunch.

For the U.S. to solve its energy supply problem, there will have to be massive investment in new generating and transmission facilities. Rates will have to go up and continue going up for the foreseeable future if adequate investment funds are to be made available. In regard to rates, anything such as the increased investment tax credit that helps reduce utility costs of construction and operation will help power consumers, because there is no escaping the fact that they are the ones who must pay the costs of producing electricity--no one else can do it.

FEDERAL PROGRAMS CHOKE ALL OTHERS, CONGRESS SCOLDED

It seems that the problem of increased federal government spending has gotten so bad that local governments have begun complaining.

In an open letter to Congress published in County News, Frank Jungas, commissioner of Cottonwood County, Minn., had this complaint:

"While Washington is preoccupied with elections, foreign affairs and defense budgets, local government has had to shift more and more attention to risng costs of welfare, medicaid and social services. Many local governments are being choked off from effective functioning because it is not in their power to control skyrocketing costs of federally imposed programs."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor Day Drama:
—Is Powerful American Labor Movement Up for Grabs by Liberal Coalition?

WASHINGTON – Inside labor, the old order changeth, as they said upon the death of King Arthur, but not the 82- year- old iron man, chief of chiefs George Meany. At last Tuesday's mass meeting of a thousand of the nation's most influential labor leaders, "the old man's " pallor and voice were more heeded than his words.

But despite the pallor and the thinning voice few Americans have more power than does the still-solid Meany, who has buried so many of his would-be successors that history has not even made them footnotes. And there he sits at labor's round table at which gathers a council made up of many lame ducks (at least six), many who plan soon to retire to their farms or condominiums, some who are just tokens and and a sturdy collection of tough union chiefs who keep wondering when "the old man" will quit. And who'll succeed him.

No esoteric question this. Nothing solely for the musings of Olympian Ivy League university professors and deans who lay a singificant" labor book a year like some well-trained golden goose.

The American labor movement is an enormous prize and suzerainty, a coalition of unions with a strong computer-equipped national headquarters, a burgeoning college and a political and social service network coasting nigh onto $20 million a year to operate. Not including, of course, the price of the worl's most effective precinct vote-machine, the Committee on Political Education (COPE).

In a sense, now, it's about up for grabs for any coalition of labor chiefs merely waiting for Meany to quit and fulfill his wish of spending a few hours each morning at the AFL-CIO college, now known as the George Meany Center for Labor Studies in Silver Spring, Md.

And it could be that such a coalition is in the making. To me, this easily is as significant as the national presidential election.

First, it should be reported that the 1.4- million- member United Auto Workers' leaders positively plan to swing their independent union back into the AFL-CIO next year.

Already this has been discussed by auto union president Leonard Woodock and federation president Meany. And by special missions flown, as a sign of respect, to the auto union's Detroit headquarters. The UAW's May 1977 convention will take the official vows. And its delegates will come marching in at the October AFL-CIO national convention now scheduled for New Orleans.

Thus a hugh block of "progressive" votes will be at the AFL-CIO convention tables. This is a flat prediction by UAW vice president Ken Bannon, who now is planning a long tough strike thrust at eh the Ford Motor Co.

Who will lead the auto union? Wookcock is a lame duck. He has reached the statutory retirement age. One thing is certain, he'll be succeeded by an even more militant unionist -- one out of the old Reutherite tradition-- no matter which of the contenders does win.

And this week marks the last tattoo of Red Smith, president of the powerful 920,000- member International Assn. of Machinists (AFL-CIO). He too has reached the bottom-line mandatory retirement. Heavy odds are that next year the society rattler, the militant IAM resident general vice president Bill Winpisinger, will win the referendum vote. Bill is so amiable one almost forgets he's one of the toughest trade unionists in town. He'll go well with the auto union crowd.

And there's the mammoth 1.4-million- member United Steelworkers of America which has just wound up its 5,000-delegate convention in Las Vegas. Its soft-spoken 68- year-old predident I.W. "Abe" Abel too is the victim of "the mandatory." Who will succeed him? There are traditionalists. And there is the challenger, the neo-Walter Reuther image, sponsored by the itinerant survivor, Victor Reuther. Namely Chicago's 38- year- old Ed Sadlowski. He'll run for president in the steel union's referendum next year. By Nick the Greek reckoning Sadlowski will lose. But Nick isn't a duescard holder. Sadlowski could win.

Should all this develop next year, George Meany at 83 would find at his round table a powerful coalition of men with coincident ideologies. And their solid vote would run six or seven million.

With them would be the Communications Workers of America president Glenn Watts, who would not turn away the crown. And he has half a million members. And Jerry Wurf's 800,000 public workers are also aligned.

Meany would face an unprecedented council of men, many of them strangers. But at his side would be an always dependable stalwart – the Maritime workers' Paul Hall. And gone would be so many of the past -- every one of whom Meany personally slected.

Like Winston Churchill, Meany , labor's "old man," might find it all a "boring" future. If he has his choice (and when hasn't he?) his crown prince, the 54- year- old "progressive" secretary treasurer Lane Kirkland, would head the round table. There might not be any battle. Men such as Hall have waited so very long and now have their own vast horizons. But if there is a battle, no one now can odds the winner. And remember that basically, over the years, as labor has gone so has the nation.

The U.S. airlines have been promoting all sorts of special fares lately and it's very bewildering when you're planning to take a trip, particularly since there are so many restrictions involved.

I discovered this when I called an airline the other day and said I wanted two seats to California.

"Very well. We can give you a special rate if you fly between Monday and Friday and promise not to smoke over Salt Lake City."

"I promise. What rate can I get?"

"You don't happen to be an American Indian, do you?"

"No."

::That's too bad because if you were an American Indian and left at four o'clock in the morning , we could give you 33 ½ per cent off."

"Gee, that's too bad," I said. "Do you have any other special fares?"

"We can give you 20 percent off if you've been married for 50 years to the same person, provided you fly to California on your anniversary and return on the same day."

"That doesn't fit me. What else have you got?"

"There is our special weekend flight fare. If you're a practicing neurosurgeon going to or from a brain operation, you're entitled to a 10 percent discount."

"Neurosurgeons get all the breaks," I complained. "Don't you have any other special fares I could take advantage of?"

"Here's one," she said. "It's good from Monday evening till Wednesday noon. If you're an American ambassador to any Scandinavian country and you're on home leave, you're entitled to first-class meals in the tourist section of the plane."

"I'm afraid I wouldn't qualify for that. Incidentally, I'm traveling with my wife."

"Well, why didn't you say so?" she said excitedly. "Is she under 21 years of age?"

"Im' not sure," I replied.

"Well, if she was and you both left on a weekday and neither of you had sinus conditions, you would be entitled to a discount."

"That sounds good."

"Of course, if she was pregnant and you both came from a state that din't have an 'O' in it, you could get an extra 5 percent, unless this happened to be your first child."

"I guess that eliminates us."

"You give up too easily," she said. "Are either one of you students?"

"No."

"If you were and happened to be studying animal husbandry at a land-grant college, I could give you each 45 percent off, if you flew on Friday the 13th."

"I can't qualify for that one."

"We still have some other special discount flights," she said. "If you're a Rhodes scholar majoring in the humanities and you have a draft-deferred status and two children, you can take our coach service anytime after midnight on the Fourth of July for one-third less."

"Couldn't you just make out two tickets to California at the regular rate?"

"I'm sorry," she said, "I've never made out that kind of ticket. You'll have to talk to my supervisor."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

CIA Hid Facts on JFK Death

by Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — After President John F. Kennedy was struck down on Nov. 22, 1963, the Central Intelligence Agency received evidence suggesting that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro arranged the assassination in retaliation for the attempts on his own life.

Yet sources privy to the secret discussions at the highest levels of the CIA during those hectic days now tell us that the CIA deliberately withheld the evidence from the Warren Commission.

Our sources cite two reasons for holding back this crucial evidence. One was a resolve to cover up the ugly secret that the CIA had enlisted Mafia mobsters to kill Castro.

But there was also a legitimate concern that the Castro revelations might inflame the American people, who had just lost a beloved President. The grief could have turned into a terrible wrath, which might have precipitated some rash action.

Only a few key people knew about the CIA plot to assassinate Castro. One was President Kennedy's brother, Robert, who was also his personal watchdog over the CIA. It has now been established that Robert Kennedy was briefed on May 7, 1962, about the use of underworld killers to knock off Castro.

Two days later, Kennedy cautioned the CIA not to go ahead with the assassination without consulting him. As the President's watchdog brother, Robert rode herd on the CIA. It must be assumed, therefore, that he was kept advised of the subsequent assassination attempts. However, there is no documentary evidence of this.

The anti-Castro plot was still on Kennedy's mind the following day. Records now available show that he informed then-FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover of the plot on May 10, 1962. Yet neither Kennedy nor Hoover later divulged this important information to the Warren Commission.

Of course, various CIA officials also knew about the assassination scheme. Not the least of them was the late CIA chief Allen Dulles, who approved the original plan. He later served on the Warren Commission. Yet he sat silently throughout the investigation of the Kennedy assassination without mentioning the Cuban angle.

Within hours after President Kennedy's death, the U.S. embassy cabled information from Mexico City suggesting that the Cubans may have been behind the assassination. Our sources say that the CIA developed similar information in Washington.

The first person to reach Robert Kennedy's side after the shooting was CIA director John McCone, who remained alone with Robert at his McLean, Va., home for nearly three hours. All others, including Robert's priest, were turned away.

McCone swore to us that Castro's name was never mentioned during the three hours. But CIA records show that the next day McCone not only mentioned Castro to the new President, Lyndon Johnson, but briefed him on the information from Mexico City.

Yet incredibly, no one brought the Cuban connection to the attention of the Warren Commission. We were the first to get word of the anti-Castro plot to Chief Justice Earl Warren, the commission chairman, four years later.

We are now free to reveal our role in the drama. Two of our confidential sources, CIA agent William Harvey and mobster John Roselli, are dead. A third source, attorney Edward P. Morgan, has waived the confidentiality we had promised him.

Morgan told us in January, 1967, about the CIA-Mafia assassination plot against Castro. He raised the possibility that the plot could have backfired against President Kennedy. There were suspicious circumstances, he pointed out, indicating that Castro may have learned of the attempts on his life and may have retaliated against Kennedy.

Morgan refused to identify his sources because it would have violated the attorney-client privilege. But he was an attorney of such stature that we didn't doubt his word. He had been chief inspector of the FBI. Then he had directed the historic congressional investigation of the Pearl Harbor bombing. Later, he ran the investigation into the excesses of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy.

Therefore, we asked Morgan to repeat the story to our associate, the late Drew Pearson, who was a close personal friend of Earl Warren. Pearson listened carefully and then went straight to the Chief Justice with the story. On Jan. 31, 1967, Warren called in Secret Service chief James Rowley and asked him to investigate. Rowley passed the buck to the FBI. But nothing happened.

We got Morgan's permission, therefore, to write a cautious story. We confirmed the general outlines from a CIA source. Then on March 3, 1967, we wrote that Robert Kennedy "may have approved an assassination plot which then possibly backfired against his late brother."

The next day, according to records now available, Kennedy's secretary called for a copy of the May 7, 1962, memo, which summarized the briefing he had received on the assassination plot.

On March 7, 1967, we reported still more details. "A reported CIA plan in 1963 to assassinate Cuba's Fidel Castro," we wrote, "... may have resulted in a counterplot by Castro to assassinate President Kennedy."

This story finally stirred President Johnson into demanding a full report from the CIA. Afterward, Johnson told intimates that he was convinced there had been a Cuban conspiracy to kill Kennedy. The evidence, however, is still circumstantial.

Footnote: It was not until January, 1971, that we were able to put together the full story of the plot to kill Castro. Then, in a series of three columns, we named the CIA-Mafia plotters and spelled out what they had done. It took another five years before the Senate Intelligence Committee finally confirmed the facts.

Miilions upon millions of dollars are appropriated by the Congress each year for the Department of Justice. The money is appropriated to provide for the Constitutional guarantees that persons shall be secure in their lives and property. Yet for the past year, much of the time and attention of the U.S. Department of Justice and most of the headlines highlighted attempts by the Attorney General to indict members of the FBI for allegedly "violating the civil rights" of would-be bombers and self- styled Marxist Revolutionaries. The American people have a right to question whether we are getting our money's worth.

VISIBILITY FOR THE INVISIBLE

THE KU KLUX KLAN, some of its members say, has been reborn in a new image. There are various klan groups, of course. They all don't agree on every point. But one group recently incorporated in Mississippi. Another tried to march in a Boy Scout-sponsored Memorial Day parade in Davie, Fla. Like never before, klansmen are preaching nonviolence and patriotism.

The rhetoric, however, seems to spread like a smokescreen from burning crosses in the night. The other day in Pulaski, Tenn., where the United Klan was convening at the site of its 1865 origins, two of its leaders harangued against the FBI for years of harassment—"interfering with the private lives of American citizens."

It's no secret that the FBI infiltrated the klan and tried to disrupt and discredit its activities. The FBI, itself, made public last year the details of this part of its counter-intelligence program. At the same time, the klan can hardly complain that it was singled out for investigation. The FBI also was infiltrating the Communist Party, the Black Panthers and several other organizations. The far left got more attention than the far right. Disclosures about FBI spying already have resulted in a full and open debate at the highest levels of government and in new regulations to prevent future excesses. The klan doesn't really make a convincing victim.

All the klan's talk about legitimacy and its attempts to associate with the mainstream or normal processes of American life avoid the issue of the klan's substance and purpose. A Boy Scout official in Davie, where the Scouts canceled their march rather than walk with klansmen, put the matter in perspective. He said the klan's public image should be based on what it stands for, not whom it stands beside.

WHAT DOES IT stand for? Segregation and white supremacy, as always. Basic attitudes haven't changed. Gordon Galle of Picayune, king kleagle of the Invisible Empire of the Knights of Ku Klux Klan, Inc., said recently that the "new knan" would operate strictly within the law—"if (a member) goes out and shoots a nigger, he'll be on his own."

One would think that any organization in this country would try to obey the law. That's not much of a concession. The telling point of Galle's righteous proclamation is that "nigger"—a word that drips with as much hatred and bigotry as any in the American language—still remains the focus of the klan mentality. There apparently will be no concession made for that.

FUEL STRETCHERS

The locomotive pulling a string of cars was the first great transportation innovation to come out of the Industrial Revolution. The success of the railroad as a means of transport lay in the fact that, as one booklet entitled "More Miles to the Gallon..." puts it, the steel wheels of the train move over the steel rails of the railroad track with very little friction. Great loads can be moved with a minimum amount of effort and that means with minimum use of energy or fuel.

At a time when there is urgent need to minimize dependence on importation of high-cost foreign oil and conserve domestic supplies of petroleum, this fact of rail fuel efficiency assumes major importance. A study made by the National Science Foundation indicates that railroads use less energy in terms of British Thermal Units per ton-mile or passenger mile than any other form of freight transport except pipelines and less than any passenger mode except busses. For example, trucks were found to be four times as energy-intensive as railroads. A private research group, the Battelle Institute, reporting the results of their investigation, compared a line-haul railroad to a five-axle, heavy-duty diesel truck. Truck performance worked out to around 77 net ton-miles per gallon of fuel, as compared with the railroads' 280 net ton-miles, and that gives the rails a nearly 4 to 1 edge in efficiency of fuel use as compared with highway trucks.

In addition to this all-important matter of fuel efficiency, railroads can accomplish their job with minimum air pollution, minimum land use, minimum noise disturbance and with greater safety than any other type of vehicular or air transport. U.S. railroads must be allowed to realize their full potential as the heart of America's transport system. So far as transportation goes, no better investment could be made in the nation's future.

INDEPENDENCE AND ELECTRICITY

Electric power will play a crucial role in reducing U.S. dependence on insecure and costly supplies of oil and natural gas. It is highly versatile in the uses to which it can be put, and it can be produced from a variety of fuel sources other than oil--as, for example, nuclear, coal, hydro, geothermal and even the sun. This being the case, the ability of the nation's electric utilities to develop and build for the future is vitally important.

As things now stand, the financial strength of the industry depends on public and regulatory acceptance of increased rates for service. Inflationary increases in material and labor costs, not to mention high interest rates, have hit hard at every utility company's construction budget. It is virtually impossible to sell utility common stock to investors and that means no alternative to more bonded debt and high-interest rates. For those utilities with oil-fired boilers, a 400 percent rise in the price of low-sulfur Middle East oil has been a backbreaker. It is little wonder that one of President Ford's recommendations for energy independence included an increase in the investment tax credit for utilities from 4 to 10 percent and a change in the tax law to permit a deduction from corporate taxable income of dividends paid on certain types of preferred stock, which should logically be treated much as interest payments on a debt. If such recommendations as these are finally approves by Congress, they will help meet the electric industry's construction cost crunch.

For the U.S. to solve its energy supply problem, there will have to be massive investment in new generating and transmission facilities. Rates will have to go up and continue going up for the foreseeable future if adequate investment funds are to be made available. In regard to rates, anything such as the increased investment tax credit that helps reduce utility costs of construction and operation will help power consumers, because there is no escaping the fact that they are the ones who must pay the costs of producing electricity--no one else can do it.

FEDERAL PROGRAMS CHOKE ALL OTHERS, CONGRESS SCOLDED

It seems that the problem of increased federal government spending has gotten so bad that local governments have begun complaining.

In an open letter to Congress published in County News, Frank Jungas, commissioner of Cottonwood County, Minn., had this complaint:

"While Washington is preoccupied with elections, foreign affairs and defense budgets, local government has had to shift more and more attention to risng costs of welfare, medicaid and social services. Many local governments are being choked off from effective functioning because it is not in their power to control skyrocketing costs of federally imposed programs."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor Day Drama:
—Is Powerful American Labor Movement Up for Grabs by Liberal Coalition?

WASHINGTON -- Inside labor, the old order changeth, as they said upon the death of King Arthur, but not the 82- year- old iron man, chief of chiefs George Meany. At last Tuesday's mass meeting of a thousand of the nation's most influential labor leaders, "the old man's " pallor and voice were more heeded than his words.

But despite the pallor and the thinning voice few Americans have more power than does the still-solid Meany, who has buried so many of his would-be successors that history has not even made them footnotes. And there he sits at labor's round table at which gathers a council made up of many lame ducks (at least six), many who plan soon to retire to their farms or condominiums, some who are just tokens and and a sturdy collection of tough union chiefs who keep wondering when "the old man" will quit. And who'll succeed him.

No esoteric question this. Nothing solely for the musings of Olympian Ivy League university professors and deans who lay a singificant" labor book a year like some well-trained golden goose.

The American labor movement is an enormous prize and suzerainty, a coalition of unions with a strong computer-equipped national headquarters, a burgeoning college and a political and social service network coasting nigh onto $20 million a year to operate. Not including, of course, the price of the worl's most effective precinct vote-machine, the Committee on Political Education (COPE).

In a sense, now, it's about up for grabs for any coalition of labor chiefs merely waiting for Meany to quit and fulfill his wish of spending a few hours each morning at the AFL-CIO college, now known as the George Meany Center for Labor Studies in Silver Spring, Md.

And it could be that such a coalition is in the making. To me, this easily is as significant as the national presidential election.

First, it should be reported that the 1.4- million- member United Auto Workers' leaders positively plan to swing their independent union back into the AFL-CIO next year.

Already this has been discussed by auto union president Leonard Woodock and federation president Meany. And by special missions flown, as a sign of respect, to the auto union's Detroit headquarters. The UAW's May 1977 convention will take the official vows. And itsdelegates will come marching in at the October AFL-CIO national convention now scheduled for New Orleans.

Thus a hugh block of "progressive" votes will be at the AFL-CIO convention tables. This is a flat prediction by UAW vice president Ken Bannon, who now is planning a long tough strike throust at eh the Ford Motor Co.

Who will lead the auto union? Wookcock is a lame duck. He has reached the statutory retirement age. One thing is certain, he'll be succeeded by an even more militant unionist -- one out of the old Reutherite tradition-- no matter which of the contenders does win.

And this week marks the last tattoo of Red Smith, president of the powerful 920,000- member International Assn. of Machinists (AFL-CIO). He too has reached the bottom-line mandatory retirement. Heavy odds are that next year the society rattler, the militant IAM resident general vice president Bill Winpisinger, will win the referendum vote. Bill is so amiable one almost forgets he's one of the toughest trade unionists in town. He'll go well with the auto union crowd.

And there's the mammoth 1.4 -million- member United Steelworkers of America which has just wound up its 5,000-delegate convention in Las Vegas. Its soft-spoken 68- year-old predident I.W. "Abe" Abel too is the victim of "the mandatory." Who will succeed him? There are traditionalists. And there is the challenger, the neo-Walter Reuther image, sponsored by the itinerant survivor, Victor Reuther. Namely Chicago's 38- year- old Ed Sadlowski. He'll run for president in the steel union's referendum next year. By Nick the Greek reckoning Sadlowski will lose. But Nick isn't a duescard holder. Sadlowski could win.

Should all this develop next year, George Meany at 83 would find at his round table a powerful coalition of men with coincident ideologies. And their solid vote would run six or seven million.

With them would be the Communications Workers of America president Glenn Watts, who would not turn away the crown. And he has half a million members. And Jerry Wurf's 800,000 public workers are also aligned.

Meany would face an unprecedented council of men, many of them strangers. But at his side would be an always dependable stalwart – the Maritime workers' Paul Hall. And gone would be so many of the past -- every one of whom Meany personally slected.

Like Winston Churchill, Meany , labor's "old man," might find it all a "boring" future. If he has his choice (and when hasn't he?) his crown prince, the 54- year- old "progressive" secretary treasurer Lane Kirkland, would head the round table. There might not be any battle. Men such as Hall have waited so very long and now have their own vast horizons. But if there is a battle, no one now can odds the winner. And remember that basically, over the years, as labor has gone so has the nation.

The U.S. airlines have been promoting all sorts of special fares lately and it's very bewildering when you're planning to take a trip, particularly since there are so many restrictions involved.

I discovered this when I called an airline the other day and said I wanted two seats to California.

"Very well. We can give you a special rate if you fly between Monday and Friday and promise not to smoke over Salt Lake City."

"I promise. What rate can I get?"

"You don't happen to be an American Indian, do you?"

"No."

::That's too bad because if you were an American Indian and left at four o'clock in the morning , we could give you 33 ½ per cent off."

"Gee, that's too bad," I said. "Do you have any other special fares?"

"We can give you 20 percent off if you've been married for 50 years to the same person, provided you fly to California on your anniversary and return on the same day."

"That doesn't fit me. What else have you got?"

"There is our special weekend flight fare. If you're a practicing neurosurgeon going to or from a brain operation, you're entitled to a 10 percent discount."

"Neurosurgeons get all the breaks," I complained. "Don't you have any other special fares I could take advantage of?"

"Here's one," she said. "It's good from Monday evening till Wednesday noon. If you're an American ambassador to any Scandinavian country and you're on home leave, you're entitled to first-class meals in the tourist section of the plane."

"I'm afraid I wouldn't qualify for that. Incidentally, I'm traveling with my wife."

"Well, why didn't you say so?" she said excitedly. "Is she under 21 years of age?"

"Im' not sure," I replied.

"Well, if she was and you both left on a weekday and neither of you had sinus conditions, you would be entitled to a discount."

"That sounds good."

"Of course, if she was pregnant and you both came from a state that din't have an 'O' in it, you could get an extra 5 percent, unless this happened to be your first child."

"I guess that eliminates us."

"You give up too easily," she said. "Are either one of you students?"

"No."

"If you were and happened to be studying animal husbandry at a land-grant college, I could give you each 45 percent off, if you flew on Friday the 13th."

"I can't qualify for that one."

"We still have some other special discount flights," she said. "If you're a Rhodes scholar majoring in the humanities and you have a draft-deferred status and two children, you can take our coach service anytime after midnight on the Fourth of July for one-third less."

"Couldn't you just make out two tickets to California at the regular rate?"

"I'm sorry," she said, "I've never made out that kind of ticket. You'll have to talk to my supervisor."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

CIA Hid Facts on JFK Death

by Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — After President John F. Kennedy was struck down on Nov. 22, 1963, the Central Intelligence Agency received evidence suggesting that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro arranged the assassination in retaliation for the attempts on his own life.

Yet sources privy to the secret discussions at the highest levels of the CIA during those hectic days now tell us that the CIA deliberately withheld the evidence from the Warren Commission.

Our sources cite two reasons for holding back this crucial evidence. One was a resolve to cover up the ugly secret that the CIA had enlisted Mafia mobsters to kill Castro.

But there was also a legitimate concern that the Castro revelations might inflame the American people, who had just lost a beloved President. The grief could have turned into a terrible wrath, which might have precipitated some rash action.

Only a few key people knew about the CIA plot to assassinate Castro. One was President Kennedy's brother, Robert, who was also his personal watchdog over the CIA. It has now been established that Robert Kennedy was briefed on May 7, 1962, about the use of underworld killers to knock off Castro.

Two days later, Kennedy cautioned the CIA not to go ahead with the assassination without consulting him. As the President's watchdog brother, Robert rode herd on the CIA. It must be assumed, therefore, that he was kept advised of the subsequent assassination attempts. However, there is no documentary evidence of this.

The anti-Castro plot was still on Kennedy's mind the following day. Records now available show that he informed then-FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover of the plot on May 10, 1962. Yet neither Kennedy nor Hoover later divulged this important information to the Warren Commission.

Of course, various CIA officials also knew about the assassination scheme. Not the least of them was the late CIA chief Allen Dulles, who approved the original plan. He later served on the Warren Commission. Yet he sat silently throughout the investigation of the Kennedy assassination without mentioning the Cuban angle.

Within hours after President Kennedy's death, the U.S. embassy cabled information from Mexico City suggesting that the Cubans may have been behind the assassination. Our sources say that the CIA developed similar information in Washington.

The first person to reach Robert Kennedy's side after the shooting was CIA director John McCone, who remained alone with Robert at his McLean, Va., home for nearly three hours. All others, including Robert's priest, were turned away.

McCone swore to us that Castro's name was never mentioned during the three hours. But CIA records show that the next day McCone not only mentioned Castro to the new President, Lyndon Johnson, but briefed him on the information from Mexico City.

Yet incredibly, no one brought the Cuban connection to the attention of the Warren Commission. We were the first to get word of the anti-Castro plot to Chief Justice Earl Warren, the commission chairman, four years later.

We are now free to reveal our role in the drama. Two of our confidential sources, CIA agent William Harvey and mobster John Roselli, are dead. A third source, attorney Edward P. Morgan, has waived the confidentiality we had promised him.

Morgan told us in January, 1967, about the CIA-Mafia assassination plot against Castro. He raised the possibility that the plot could have backfired against President Kennedy. There were suspicious circumstances, he pointed out, indicating that Castro may have learned of the attempts on his life and may have retaliated against Kennedy.

Morgan refused to identify his sources because it would have violated the attorney-client privilege. But he was an attorney of such stature that we didn't doubt his word. He had been chief inspector of the FBI. Then he had directed the historic congressional investigation of the Pearl Harbor bombing. Later, he ran the investigation into the excesses of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy.

Therefore, we asked Morgan to repeat the story to our associate, the late Drew Pearson, who was a close personal friend of Earl Warren. Pearson listened carefully and then went straight to the Chief Justice with the story. On Jan. 31, 1967, Warren called in Secret Service chief James Rowley and asked him to investigate. Rowley passed the buck to the FBI. But nothing happened.

We got Morgan's permission, therefore, to write a cautious story. We confirmed the general outlines from a CIA source. Then on March 3, 1967, we wrote that Robert Kennedy "may have approved an assassination plot which then possibly backfired against his late brother."

The next day, according to records now available, Kennedy's secretary called for a copy of the May 7, 1962, memo, which summarized the briefing he had received on the assassination plot.

On March 7, 1967, we reported still more details. "A reported CIA plan in 1963 to assassinate Cuba's Fidel Castro," we wrote, "... may have resulted in a counterplot by Castro to assassinate President Kennedy."

This story finally stirred President Johnson into demanding a full report from the CIA. Afterward, Johnson told intimates that he was convinced there had been a Cuban conspiracy to kill Kennedy. The evidence, however, is still circumstantial.

Footnote: It was not until January, 1971, that we were able to put together the full story of the plot to kill Castro. Then, in a series of three columns, we named the CIA-Mafia plotters and spelled out what they had done. It took another five years before the Senate Intelligence Committee finally confirmed the facts.

Arkansas State acquires a computer

JONESBORO, Ark. — Arkansas State University recently took a major step toward improving its instructional, research and management capacities with the acquisition of a multi-programming, time-sharing computer.

Manufactured by Harris Computer Systems, the new computer will significantly improve the potential of the university's instructional and research programs, according to Charles Yauger, director of ASU Computer Services. The new system replaces an older computer the university purchased in 1967.

"We have taken a big step," said Yauger. "Our new system is faster, more efficient and provides the university with tremendous potential in many areas. With this computer we can place terminals at locations all across the campus to provide access to students and instructors."

In addition to the new computer system, ASU will acquire 16 terminals in the first phase of a project that eventually will provide more than 50 terminals across the campus.

"The terminal concept takes the computer to the student," said Yauger, "instead of the student having to come to the computer. Under our old system, students had to come to the computer center, punch cards and then wait to get on the computer.

"Our new system provides direct access and a student can dial into the computer from any terminal point on campus. Since the new system time shares, the computer can handle several programs or requests simultaneously.

"This will make using the computer similar to using the library," added Yauger. "Those users who require blocks of computer time can schedule it. Other users requiring small amounts of time can obtain it immediately after signing on at a terminal."

Yauger was chairman of a universitywide computer selection committee that evaluated several systems. He said Harris is relatively new to the business computer field, but has been involved in computer electronics and the space program for a number of years.

"They saved us space and gave us more for our dollar," he added. "We used to keep our old system so stacked up with work that none of our users really had enough access to the computer.

"Now we can give those students having a special interest in computers time to improve their skills, and we can provide all students of the University with a better opportunity to understand and use the computer. As we move more and more into the computer age, the training potential we offer in this area will be important to our students."

Yauger said the new system will run in a few seconds programs that it took the old system minutes to complete.

Dr. Eugene Smith, dean of the Graduate School and also a member of the computer selection committee, called the acquisition a major one for ASU.

"We were getting behind with our old system," said Smith, "but this new system provides us with great potential in many areas."

Smith said almost every academic discipline is tied to computer science in some way. He said ASU now can introduce students to just about as sophisticated a computer as they will see.

"Its capacity for storage and processing will enable us to move into research in a much more dramatic way," said Smith, "and that will benefit everyone.

"And now an instructor can program a problem into the computer and tell students to go and solve that problem. They can go to a terminal, dial in under a code and have direct access to the computer.

"As an example, we can take graduate students in school finance and, by using the computer, let them simulate the operation of an entire school system. We can give them problems ranging from teachers' salaries to storm damage and let them see if they can solve those problems."

Students in business, the sciences, mathematics, the Institute of Technology and Management, agriculture, education and other academic disciplines will benefit from the new computer, according to Smith.

Arkansas State's new system includes a central processor, console, two printers, an input card reader, two tape drives, two disk drives, a card reader punch and 16 terminals. Harris Computer Systems installed the equipment and will provide around the clock maintenance during the first year of its use.

Presidential Classroom for Young Americans to begin

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Young Missourians may be interested to know that the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans is preparing for its 1977 program here in Washington," Sen. Stuart Symington announced Tuesday.

"Under this program, high school students from all 50 states are brought together to study their federal government first hand. Forty Missouri students participated in last year's class," he said.

Symington commended the program by saying, "In its ninth consecutive year, the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans has afforded more than 13,000 students the opportunity to study American democracy in theory--and in practice."

A nonpartisan, nonprofit, special education program, the Presidential Classroom offers six separate week-long sessions beginning Jan. 29 and ending March 12.

During their stay in Washington, students have intensive schedules. In daily seminars, discussion groups and meetings with federal decision-makers, participants learn about the operation of government.

The Presidential Classroom, although not a classroom in the traditional sense, gives students an opportunity to see government in action at such varied locations as the White House, the State Department, Capitol Hill and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Any high school may send up to six students to the program. Participants are chosen by each individual school, based on guidelines established by the program's planners. Total cost per student is $250. Applications should be submitted as soon as possible since class sizes are limited.

Admission request cards and additional information may be obtained by writing the Presidential Classroom Program Office, P.O. Box 19084, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Missouri state wide cancer program receives major federal grants for work

COLUMBIA — With federal approval of grants totaling nearly $1.4 million, work will be accelerated in Missouri in developing a unique statewide approach to cancer prevention, detection, treatment and research, according to Missouri Cancer Programs, Inc., which has been established by seven Missouri institutions, three associations and the Missouri Division of Health. Membership is open for other institutions and associations that may wish to join.

Missouri's death rate from cancer exceeds the national average. During the period between 1950 and 1970, the increase in the death rate in Missouri was 14 per cent greater than the rise nationwide.

The purposes and goals of Missouri Cancer Programs were discussed at a news conference by Dr. George E. Thoma, president of the MCP Board of Trustees, and Dr. John W. Yarbro of Columbia, MCP executive director. Thoma is vice president of St. Louis University for its medical center. Yarbro is chairman of the Department of Oncology at the University of Missouri-Columbia Medical School.

Initial work began this spring under a $637,979 grant from the National Cancer Institute, and MCP already is coordinating the cancer research and training efforts of the seven founding institutions. Work also is in progress on the formation of statewide task forces on eight types of cancer: malignant melanoma; breast; colon; lung; leukemia and lymphoma; uterus and ovary; bladder and prostate; and buccal cavity and pharynx.

Work on these programs will now be accelerated with approval, effective this week, of a $241,117 planning grant and a $509,514 supporting grant from NCI.

Thoma said that all indications are that the Missouri effort involves a greater degree of cooperation by more different institutions than has yet been achieved anywhere else in the nation.

"Missouri's efforts have met with enthusiastic reaction in Washington, and we have an enormous responsibility not only to the people of Missouri but also nationally, for our work and our results will be under exceptional scrutiny," he emphasized.

At every step of the way, Yarbro pointed out, MCP will operate under a fundamental principle of assuring that "the ultimate beneficiaries of all efforts will be the physicians and the people of Missouri."

Thoma expressed the trustees' gratitude for the support of Gov. Christopher S. Bond; members of the Missouri General Assembly, Missouri's Congressional delegation, including Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton; and other leaders, whose support and efforts have made MCP possible.

Three major associations represented in MCP are the Missouri State Medical Association, the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons and the Missouri Division of the American Cancer Society.

Current member institutions in MCP are the Cancer Research Center in Columbia, Kansas City College of Osteopathic Medicine, Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine, Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital, St. Louis University, University of Missouri-Columbia and University of Missouri-Kansas City.

Board members of Missouri Cancer Programs look forward to increasing the scope of MCP to include every private physician and organization with a concern for specific cancer problems. In this way, all Missouri citizens will be served and the battle to conquer cancer will have moved towards its conclusion, according to Thoma.

Dear Editor,

Are we people or animals? The students at Senior High often ask this question because of the fence that separates the school from Pasquale's, and other stores. If they are going to have open campus, why the fence?

It has no purpose being there except to make eveyone late for class. Who has our answer?

TRCC to host reception for new president Sunday

POPLAR BLUFF — The Three Rivers Community College District Board of Trustees will host a reception Sunday to introduce Dr. Jack L. Bottenfield, TRCC president.

The reception is open to the public and will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. in the fellowship hall at First United Methodist Church, located at the corner of North Main and Fifth Streets.

Bottenfield assumed his duties as TRCC president on July 1, upon the retirement of Dr. H. Tudor Westover. He came to Three Rivers from Vincennes University in Vincennes, Ind., where he was executive vice president.

Bottenfield received bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Illinois at Urbana, Ill., and a doctor of education degree from Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind. He has been active in numerous state and national educational organizations.

The purpose of the reception is to give the entire community an opportunity to meet informally with the college president.

Arkansas State acquires a computer

JONESBORO, Ark. — Arkansas State University recently took a major step toward improving its instructional, research and management capacities with the acquisition of a multi-programming, time-sharing computer.

Manufactured by Harris Computer Systems, the new computer will significantly improve the potential of the university's instructional and research programs, according to Charles Yauger, director of ASU Computer Services. The new system replaces an older computer the university purchased in 1967.

"We have taken a big step," said Yauger. "Our new system is faster, more efficient and provides the university with tremendous potential in many areas. With this computer we can place terminals at locations all across the campus to provide access to students and instructors."

In addition to the new computer system, ASU will acquire 16 terminals in the first phase of a project that eventually will provide more than 50 terminals across the campus.

"The terminal concept takes the computer to the student," said Yauger, "instead of the student having to come to the computer. Under our old system, students had to come to the computer center, punch cards and then wait to get on the computer.

"Our new system provides direct access and a student can dial into the computer from any terminal point on campus. Since the new system time shares, the computer can handle several programs or requests simultaneously.

"This will make using the computer similar to using the library," added Yauger. "Those users who require blocks of computer time can schedule it. Other users requiring small amounts of time can obtain it immediately after signing on at a terminal."

Yauger was chairman of a universitywide computer selection committee that evaluated several systems. He said Harris is relatively new to the business computer field, but has been involved in computer electronics and the space program for a number of years.

"They saved us space and gave us more for our dollar," he added. "We used to keep our old system so stacked up with work that none of our users really had enough access to the computer.

"Now we can give those students having a special interest in computers time to improve their skills, and we can provide all students of the University with a better opportunity to understand and use the computer. As we move more and more into the computer age, the training potential we offer in this area will be important to our students."

Yauger said the new system will run in a few seconds programs that it took the old system minutes to complete.

Dr. Eugene Smith, dean of the Graduate School and also a member of the computer selection committee, called the acquisition a major one for ASU.

"We were getting behind with our old system," said Smith, "but this new system provides us with great potential in many areas."

Smith said almost every academic discipline is tied to computer science in some way. He said ASU now can introduce students to just about as sophisticated a computer as they will see.

"Its capacity for storage and processing will enable us to move into research in a much more dramatic way," said Smith, "and that will benefit everyone.

"And now an instructor can program a problem into the computer and tell students to go and solve that problem. They can go to a terminal, dial in under a code and have direct access to the computer.

"As an example, we can take graduate students in school finance and, by using the computer, let them simulate the operation of an entire school system. We can give them problems ranging from teachers' salaries to storm damage and let them see if they can solve those problems."

Students in business, the sciences, mathematics, the Institute of Technology and Management, agriculture, education and other academic disciplines will benefit from the new computer, according to Smith.

Arkansas State's new system includes a central processor, console, two printers, an input card reader, two tape drives, two disk drives, a card reader punch and 16 terminals. Harris Computer Systems installed the equipment and will provide around the clock maintenance during the first year of its use.

Presidential Classroom for Young Americans to begin

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Young Missourians may be interested to know that the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans is preparing for its 1977 program here in Washington," Sen. Stuart Symington announced Tuesday.

"Under this program, high school students from all 50 states are brought together to study their federal government first hand. Forty Missouri students participated in last year's class," he said.

Symington commended the program by saying, "In its ninth consecutive year, the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans has afforded more than 13,000 students the opportunity to study American democracy in theory–and in practice."

A nonpartisan, nonprofit, special education program, the Presidential Classroom offers six separate week-long sessions beginning Jan. 29 and ending March 12.

During their stay in Washington, students have intensive schedules. In daily seminars, discussion groups and meetings with federal decision-makers, participants learn about the operation of government.

The Presidential Classroom, although not a classroom in the traditional sense, gives students an opportunity to see government in action at such varied locations as the White House, the State Department, Capitol Hill and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Any high school may send up to six students to the program. Participants are chosen by each individual school, based on guidelines established by the program's planners. Total cost per student is $250. Applications should be submitted as soon as possible since class sizes are limited.

Admission request cards and additional information may be obtained by writing the Presidential Classroom Program Office, P.O. Box 19084, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Missouri state wide cancer program receives major federal grants for work

COLUMBIA — With federal approval of grants totaling nearly $1.4 million, work will be accelerated in Missouri in developing a unique statewide approach to cancer prevention, detection, treatment and research, according to Missouri Cancer Programs, Inc., which has been established by seven Missouri institutions, three associations and the Missouri Division of Health. Membership is open for other institutions and associations that may wish to join.

Missouri's death rate from cancer exceeds the national average. During the period between 1950 and 1970, the increase in the death rate in Missouri was 14 per cent greater than the rise nationwide.

The purposes and goals of Missouri Cancer Programs were discussed at a news conference by Dr. George E. Thoma, president of the MCP Board of Trustees, and Dr. John W. Yarbro of Columbia, MCP executive director. Thoma is vice president of St. Louis University for its medical center. Yarbro is chairman of the Department of Oncology at the University of Missouri-Columbia Medical School.

Initial work began this spring under a $637,979 grant from the National Cancer Institute, and MCP already is coordinating the cancer research and training efforts of the seven founding institutions. Work also is in progress on the formation of statewide task forces on eight types of cancer: malignant melanoma; breast; colon; lung; leukemia and lymphoma; uterus and ovary; bladder and prostate; and buccal cavity and pharynx.

Work on these programs will now be accelerated with approval, effective this week, of a $241,117 planning grant and a $509,514 supporting grant from NCI.

Thoma said that all indications are that the Missouri effort involves a greater degree of cooperation by more different institutions than has yet been achieved anywhere else in the nation.

"Missouri's efforts have met with enthusiastic reaction in Washington, and we have an enormous responsibility not only to the people of Missouri but also nationally, for our work and our results will be under exceptional scrutiny," he emphasized.

At every step of the way, Yarbro pointed out, MCP will operate under a fundamental principle of assuring that "the ultimate beneficiaries of all efforts will be the physicians and the people of Missouri."

Thoma expressed the trustees' gratitude for the support of Gov. Christopher S. Bond; members of the Missouri General Assembly, Missouri's Congressional delegation, including Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton; and other leaders, whose support and efforts have made MCP possible.

Three major associations represented in MCP are the Missouri State Medical Association, the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons and the Missouri Division of the American Cancer Society.

Current member institutions in MCP are the Cancer Research Center in Columbia, Kansas City College of Osteopathic Medicine, Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine, Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital, St. Louis University, University of Missouri-Columbia and University of Missouri-Kansas City.

Board members of Missouri Cancer Programs look forward to increasing the scope of MCP to include every private physician and organization with a concern for specific cancer problems. In this way, all Missouri citizens will be served and the battle to conquer cancer will have moved towards its conclusion, according to Thoma.

Hills note golden anniversary

CHARLESTON — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hill of Charleston celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently with a lawn party at their home.

The blessing was given by the Rev. Raymond Brammer. Among refreshments served to the couple and their guests was an anniversary cake made and decorated by their daughter, Judy Zajonc of Fresno, Calif.

Servers were Mrs. Donald Adams and Mrs. Edna Brown of Charleston. Mrs. Raymond Brammer, also of Charleston, sat at the guest book.

The tables were decorated with flowers and silver items.

The couple received several gifts.

Among the 50 guests were several from out-of-town: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zojonc of Fresno, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eichmiller and sons of Loogootee, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Sasseen of Cairo, Ill.; Mrs. Bell Hill and James Hill of Collinsville, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Honey and daughter of Cartersville, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Andy Hall of Sikeston; Mrs. Gary Thornburg and children of East Prairie and Delmar Adams of Anniston.

Woman says 'gay' wrong description for homosexuals

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me why homosexuals refer to themselves as "gay"? The word actually means "happy, joyous, lighthearted and cheerful."

My brother is a homosexual. He is miserable and depressed, an introverted loner who will probably end up killing himself. His lover left him last year and I've never seen anyone so forlorn and ejected. The last word I would use to describe my brother is "gay," yet that's what he is. Can you enlighten me? -- On The Sidelelines

Dear Sidelines: The word "gay" was selected by the gays themselves. True, not all gays are gay, but many are quite content and have not interest in being straight.

Your brother needs professional help. Anyone who is depressed and suicidal (gay or straight) should get counseling. He needs to ventilate his feelings and learn to accept himself as he is. If he can't afford a psychiatrist, the country or state Mental Health Assns. will help him.

Dear Ann Landers: My friends and relatives have "advised" me until my head is spinning. The question: Is the middle child different?

Our first born is beautifully adjusted, dependable, self-sufficient, gets along well in school and has many friends. The youngest boy is bright, cooperative, creative, affectionate and has a sunny disposition. The middle son is a nail-biter, a bed-wetter, does poorly in his studies and always seems to be in trouble. He's sullen and unhappy and makes us unhappy too.

I keep hearing, "It's because he's the middle one." Is there any validity to this assessment? -- Mother Of Two Plusses And One Minus.

Dear Mother: Your signature tells me almost as much as your letter. If you view the middle boy as a "minus" I feel plenty sorry for him. And for you too.

The one in the middle is in the least desirable spot. He must compete with the eldest (usually the favoirte) and suffer the praise that passes him by and goes to the youngest.

What can you do? You can give the middle child double doses of love and affection. Compliment him whenever possible. Don't permit any comparisons by firends and relatives. And spend at least 15 minutes a day with just HIM.

Dear Ann: You've probably had it with the "hairy" problems, but please get this into your column by hook or by crook. I'm desperate.

I'm a 20-year-old guy and my girlfriend, Amy, is neat. No sweat there. The thing I'm writing about is the hair on my chest. I don't have any. Amy has never said anything direct but when we go to the beach she can't take her eyes off the hairy-chested dudes. I feel inferior.

Please consult your experts and find out if there is any way a person can grow hair from scratch. I want REAL hair -- no wigs, none of that phony stuff. I realize chest hair is just a decoration but if Amy likes it, I want it. -- A Mexican Hairless

Dear Chihuahua: Hair doesn't grow from "scratch." It grows from follicles. The only way you can achieve your goal is by having a transplant. I don't recommend it. It's expensive, painful and time-consuming. Take my word for it, Bub, it's not THAT important. Hair today. Gone tomorrow.

Weightlifter boosts chance of becoming Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — An opera singer from Virginia and a Texas woman who lifts weights to keep in shape now have a better shot at becoming Miss America 1977.

Pamela Polk, 22, of Richmond, Va., and Carmen McCollum, 19, of Odessa, Tex., took the talent and swimsuit competition, respectively, on the first night of preliminary competition here Wednesday.

"I'm very pleased. I felt talent was my strong point," said Miss Polk after her performance of "Mio Chiamano Mimi" from Puccini's opera "La Boheme" won the judges votes.

"I was surprised, very surprised. There were many, many good figures out there," said the 36-25-36 Miss McCollum after hers caught the judges' eyes.

She said she lifts weights three times a week to keep her muscles in shape. Another contestant here, Nebraska's Marion Watson, also lifts weights.

Miss McCollum said lifting weights on a sensible schedule can develop a woman's muscle tone without over-building them.

Miss McCollum, a sophomore psychology major at North Texas State University, described her swimsuit as watermelon-colored with spaghetti straps. She said she picked it up at Neiman Marcus in Dallas.

Evening gown competition is conducted each night but the results are kept secret until later.

Alcoholics find hope at treatment center

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — Despair had bottomed out for Molly, who, at 21, characterized herself as "a drunken junkie."

She'd spent two years in and out of "drying out" institutions, "drinkin' and dopin'—an $80 a day habit—going through hell." Then came what she and others like her refer to as the "miracle trip" to Hope—Valley Hope Alcoholic Treatment Center here.

She, like the others, came with little hope.

"I came here in July—panicky, cynical, thinking: 'what can these shrinks do for me? I know all their games!'"

Then there was Sam, in his 40s. "I had been hiding in a bottle for years. My kidneys have only about two drunks left in 'em, then I'm dead. I can't let that happen."

A Korean War veteran, outgoing, sociable Jim, bolstered by his wife's presence in his third trip to Hope, promised: "It'll stick this time. After 30 years—high school beer busts, college beer busts, low-cost beer and liquor to drink up in the Army, partying back home, sipping at hidden bottles all day—there's got to be something better."

They agree that something better is Hope, and within 30 days begin to see their lives turned around. That's been the case for about 2,000 others with alcoholic and related problems who have used Hope's facilities in the last four years.

"It's knowing that I'm whipped—that I can't be a self-made person," Jim explained. "Forget the wrongs of the past. Turn the problems over to the Guy upstairs and do the best I can each day. It's helping you lick your emotional problems that make the program work here."

Molly describes her Hope experience ... "I found me. I can love others, help others, trust them, because I like my self. It's because of the fantastic loving care, the terrific counselors and chaplains here—it's the great thing they give you in a spiritual life with a loving God—it really works."

Molly, Sam and Jim could have found the same care program and spiritual resources at the 72-bed Valley Hope Treatment Center at Norton, Kan., and the 51-bed center at Cushing, Okla.

They will be assisted in "staying dry" after being dismissed by these same centers, three out-patient Valley Hope centers at Wichita, Abilene and Overland Park, Kan., and also by halfway houses and numerous chapters of Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon (for spouses).

The Valley Hope Association which administers the centers is at Norton, formed there in 1966 in a bowling alley by The Rev. Bob Adams and Dr. Merlynn Colip.

Within a year, the Norton in-patient VH Alcoholic Treatment Center opened in the remodeled rooms of the state hospital. Dr. William D. Leipold, clinical psychologist, became its guiding light.

Now clinical director of the association, Dr. Leipold has pushed establishment of the other centers and a proposed new in-patient center in O'Nell, Neb. He is considered a leading authority in alcoholism rehabilitation and his recently-published book "Walk Through the Valley," is now in its second printing.

The Hope organization has helped more than 10,000 distressed men and women in less than 10 years.

They come from every walk of life, young and old, every color and creed, according to C. L. Engebritson, program director at Atchison.

"I don't have to tell you about our unique care program—every patient will vouch for it," Engebritson said.

And they do—saying thanks with contributions toward the next treatment center, gifts for the local institutions—everything from sodding for the whole campus to a cross for the chapel.

DEAR POLLY — I think Mrs. T.C.R. should use corn meal when the original slickness wears off her playing cards. Shuffle the cards through cornmeal and they will soon handle like new ones. There is no dust or powder to choke you. I have done this many times and find it really works. — DEE.

DEAR POLLY — I have had a Pet Peeve for a long time, but yesterday fuel was added to the fire. At least four features on the editorial page of our paper had the writers' names spelled in small letters. How can a teacher teach a child the proper method of capitalizing proper names when they see such as this? Is this a fad? I realize it is not new and, if it is, what is the advantage? I have always felt that a child born with a real desire to read had an advantage over one who disliked reading but NOW with this new wrinkle I am afraid they will have to decide just when a person deserves having his name begin with a capital letter. — OLD FASHIONED.

Tuna is year-around favorite

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Conservationists and marine biologists warn that the world stock of tuna is dwindling, which is sad news since this tasty and relatively inexpensive fish is nutritious and also provides healthy fare for those with cholesterol or weight problems.

The International Commission for the Conservation of Atlantic Tunas reported that the total catch for 1974 in both the Atlantic and Mediterranean had declined to 12,000 tons in 1973. Which is quite a drop when you consider the fact that they caught 40,000 tons in those same waters ten years earlier. Plenty of the fish are still caught in the Pacific, of course.

Tuna, a member of the mackerel family, is found in all but the coldest waters of the world, says a report by National Geographic Society. It is the basis of one of the world's oldest and largest fishing industries.

The versatile fish became known in the United States more than 70 years ago when the California sardine, a mainstay of many American dinner tables, began to disappear from the waters off our West Coast. Searching for a replacement, one canner turned to tuna and began turning them out in quantity in his Los Angeles plant.

So great is the demand today that fishing boats from more than 40 nations go after tuna. More than two thirds of the catch is hauled in by American and Japanese fishermen.

The chief varieties of tuna caught commercially range from skipjack, weighing up to 40 pounds; albacore, which runs about 80 pounds; the yellowfin, which can weigh up to 400 pounds, to the bluefin, which sometimes tips the scales at an awesome 1,500 pounds.

Alarmed over the dwindling supply, several countries, including the United States, subscribe to international agreements limiting the number and the size of the fish to be caught. But, unfortunately, many nations do not observe such limits.

Served the year round, tuna is appetizing in both summer salads and cold weather casseroles and has long been a favorite sandwich filling. For a change, try this formula for a summer hearty salad.

- 4 scallions
- 2-3rds cup mayonnaise
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 can (4 ounces) pimiento, diced
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 2 cans (12 ounces each) whole kernel corn, drained
- 2 cans (9¼ ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil

Slice scallions, white and green parts, into ¼-inch pieces. Blend together mayonnaise, curry powder, salt and vinegar. Add scallions, pimiento, celery, and corn and tuna, both well drained. Toss to mix well. Chill and serve in a 1½-quart bowl. Garnish with salad greens if desired. Serves 6. Good with chilled chablis.

No pay raise for Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be no cost-of-living pay raise this election year for members of Congress.

The Senate voted 46 to 25 Tuesday to exclude Senators and House members from an automatic pay increase due Oct. 1 to all federal civil service employes.

The House had voted 325 to 75 last Wednesday to exclude not only Congress but also federal judges, Cabinet members and other top federal officials earning more than $37,800 a year.

The Senate, however, in adopting an amendment by Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, agreed to lift the salary freeze for all but senators and congressmen.

The ultimate pay raise fate of judges and top federal officials will await decision of a House-Senate conference on the billion-dollar legislative appropriation bill for fiscal 1977.

The exact amount of the federal pay raise, due automatically Oct. 1 unless blocked by Congress, is yet to be determined, but it has been estimated at 4.8 per cent. That would have raised the salary of members of Congress from $44,625 to $46,750 a year. The current salary reflects a 5 per cent automatic raise last year.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the Senate legislative appropriations subcommittee, defended the pay raise for all officials, including members of Congress.

He said that if the Taft amendment, allowing the raise for everyone but members of Congress, were adopted "there will be 14 White House staff aides running around earning more than senators."

The debate included discussion over whether Congress members, if they lacked "the guts" in an election year to vote themselves a pay raise, should deny it to other top government officials.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said Congress members should not "demean" themselves by rejecting a cost-of-living increase while approving it for federal judges and high-level executive officials.

Pastore, retiring at the end of the year, said it made little difference to him personally, but he argued a pay hike should go to all or none.

Martin joins Hearnes staff

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — David K. Martin began his first day on the job Tuesday as the director of Democrat Warren Hearnes' campaign for the U.S. Senate.

The 44-year-old Denver resident was to meet with Hearnes today to plot strategy. He is a veteran of some 20 campaigns from city and state races in Colorado to Democratic presidential politics in 1968 and 1972. He was communications director of the successful 1972 race of Delaware Democrat Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr.

Martin is a native of Nebraska and a former Associated Press statehouse reporter in Lincoln.

"We have a lot of work to do and a short time in which to do it," Martin said. "But we have the troops, and they are going to be organized to do the job on election day."

The former Missouri governor is facing Republican Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth in the contest to succeed retiring Sen. Stuart Symington.

No pay raise for Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be no cost-of-living pay raise this election year for members of Congress.

The Senate voted 46 to 25 Tuesday to exclude Senators and House members from an automatic pay increase due Oct. 1 to all federal civil service employes.

The House had voted 325 to 75 last Wednesday to exclude not only Congress but also federal judges, Cabinet members and other top federal officials earning more than $37,800 a year.

The Senate, however, in adopting an amendment by Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, agreed to lift the salary freeze for all but senators and congressmen.

The ultimate pay raise fate of judges and top federal officials will await decision of a House-Senate conference on the billion-dollar legislative appropriation bill for fiscal 1977.

The exact amount of the federal pay raise, due automatically Oct. 1 unless blocked by Congress, is yet to be determined, but it has been estimated at 4.8 per cent. That would have raised the salary of members of Congress from $44,625 to $46,750 a year. The current salary reflects a 5 per cent automatic raise last year.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the Senate legislative appropriations subcommittee, defended the pay raise for all officials, including members of Congress.

He said that if the Taft amendment, allowing the raise for everyone but members of Congress, were adopted "there will be 14 White House staff aides running around earning more than senators."

The debate included discussion over whether Congress members, if they lacked "the guts" in an election year to vote themselves a pay raise, should deny it to other top government officials.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said Congress members should not "demean" themselves by rejecting a cost-of-living increase while approving it for federal judges and high-level executive officials.

Pastore, retiring at the end of the year, said it made little difference to him personally, but he argued a pay hike should go to all or none.

Martin joins Hearnes staff

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — David K. Martin began his first day on the job Tuesday as the director of Democrat Warren Hearnes' campaign for the U.S. Senate.

The 44-year-old Denver resident was to meet with Hearnes today to plot strategy. He is a veteran of some 20 campaigns from city and state races in Colorado to Democratic presidential politics in 1968 and 1972. He was communications director of the successful 1972 race of Delaware Democrat Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr.

Martin is a native of Nebraska and a former Associated Press statehouse reporter in Lincoln.

"We have a lot of work to do and a short time in which to do it," Martin said. "But we have the troops, and they are going to be organized to do the job on election day."

The former Missouri governor is facing Republican Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth in the contest to succeed retiring Sen. Stuart Symington.

Democrats appoint chairman

BENTON — Jim Mac Emerson of Morley was appointed finance committee chairman and Connie Shuford of Chaffee was named publicity chairman for the fall campaign Wednesday night by Ben F. Marshall of Blodgett, chairman of the Scott County Democratic Central Committee.

During discussion, it was stressed that all county residents should be informed of the importance of registering to vote in the general election.

The last day for registering with Scott County Clerk Bob Kielhofner to vote in the Nov. 2 general election is 5 p.m. Oct. 6.

The opening of Democratic headquarters in Sikeston and Chaffee, along with a parade, was discussed and further action will be taken at the next meeting, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 27 in the county courthouse.

Suit seeks to outst state representative

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — In a tactical shift away from criminal prosecution, the Missouri Election Commission Wednesday filed a civil suit here seeking the ouster of a state representative.

In its ouster petition filed in St. Louis County Circuit Court the commission alleges Rep. Francis R. Brady Jr. of St. Louis County filed false income and investment reports.

The suit is the first noncriminal case filed by the commission, noted Anne E. Forry, executive director.

She acknowledged that the light criminal penalties, ranging from $25 to $50 and court costs, handed out by judges in commission criminal cases were a factor in the decision to file a civil suit.

"The judge are understandably hesitant. It's a new law. That's their privilege, and we have absolutely no quarrel with what they're doing," Miss Forry said.

Brady is charged with failing to file reports, filing late reports and filing reports containing false information. The commission asked that Brady's victories in both a 1975 special election and the Democratic primary last month be voided.

Suit seeks to outst state representative

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — In a tactical shift away from criminal prosecution, the Missouri Election Commission Wednesday filed a civil suit here seeking the ouster of a state representative.

In its ouster petition filed in St. Louis County Circuit Court the commission alleges Rep. Francis R. Brady Jr. of St. Louis County filed false income and investment reports.

The suit is the first noncriminal case filed by the commission, noted Anne E. Forry, executive director.

She acknowledged that the light criminal penalties, ranging from $25 to $50 and court costs, handed out by judges in commission criminal cases were a factor in the decision to file a civil suit.

"The judge are understandably hesitant. It's a new law. That's their privilege, and we have absolutely no quarrel with what they're doing," Miss Forry said.

Brady is charged with failing to file reports, filing late reports and filing reports containing false information. The commission asked that Brady's victories in both a 1975 special election and the Democratic primary last month be voided.

Democrats appoint chairman

BENTON — Jim Mac Emerson of Morley was appointed finance committee chairman and Connie Shuford of Chaffee was named publicity chairman for the fall campaign Wednesday night by Ben F. Marshall of Blodgett, chairman of the Scott County Democratic Central Committee.

During discussion, it was stressed that all county residents should be informed of the importance of registering to vote in the general election.

The last day for registering with Scott County Clerk Bob Kielhofner to vote in the Nov. 2 general election is 5 p.m. Oct. 6.

The opening of Democratic headquarters in Sikeston and Chaffee, along with a parade, was discussed and further action will be taken at the next meeting, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 27 in the county courthouse.

Sikeston collects $22,174

Sikeston collected $22,174.02 in taxes and fees during August, according to City Collector Ann Elliott.

Back real estate taxes collected included: $378.54, and back personal taxes totaled $157.06.

License collections totaled $16,588.94, including: merchants licenses, $15,818.69; auto licenses, $201.75; liquor licenses, $532.50; and dog licenses, $36.

Miscellaneous fees received in August amounted to $5,049.48, including: interest, $50.63; clerk costs, $3.20, solicitation fees, $28; and Associated Natural Gas Co. franchise fee, $4,967.05.

Armed forces

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. — Marine Sgt. Steven G. Campbell, son of Mrs. Carol L. Flammger of 1005 Virginia St., Sikeston, Mo., has been promoted to his present rank while serving at Camp Lejeune Marine Corps Base.

A former student at Benton High School in St. Joseph, Mo., he joined the Marine Corps in August 1973.

The Prayer

"Always treat others as you would like them to treat you." (Matthew 7:12 NEB)

PRAYER: Our Father in heaven, we come to Three for wisdom to view the world with greater understanding. Help us to know the feelings of others and understand ourselves better. In Christ's name we pray. Amen

Expos take pair from Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — For a team in possession of baseball's worst record, the Montreal Expos are showing exceptional life.

Twice knocked down by the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night, the Expos arose each time and swept their second doubleheader of the season — mostly through perserverance.

"I wish some of you guys could be on the bench and hear the yelling," an ebullient Montreal Manager Charlie Fox told reporters following the 7-5, 8-7 Expos wins.

"They're saying, 'I'll give you two, I'll give you two,'" said Fox, referring to his pitching staff.

"I'll tell you something," he added, "they've been scratching out there. They haven't given up yet. They're still out there to play the game."

That Fox' young club, doomed to finish last in the National League East, has remained competitive was demonstrated in each contest.

A four-run St. Louis second inning swamped the Expos in the opener until first the bat of Del Unser and afterward that of Barry Foote retrieved victory from defeat.

Then, after Montreal fell behind 7-1 in the nightcap, a collective effort erased most of the deficit and Jose Morales' pinch double won it in the eighth.

"The key play may have been when I took the left fielder (Bombo Rivera) out and put Jerry White in there," Fox glibly remarked concerning the second-game triumph.

No sooner had the move been made than White, racing to his left on rain-slickened turf, reached out to rob Keith Hernandez of a double at the start of the Cards' eighth.

Young reliever Joe Kerrigan, 2-4, picked up both victories for Montreal with the aid of saves registered by Dale Murray and Woodie Fryman.

But as damaging to St. Louis' pitchers as 24 Expos hits were seven errors — including six during the nightcap after the Cards scored five times in the opening inning.

Three of the miscues helped Montreal score five times in the sixth inning to draw close at 7-6.

Two innings later, with Tom Walker, 0-1, still on the mound, Tim Foli opened with a single and Mike Jorgensen and Morales followed with doubles to cap the Expos' comeback.

Phillies lead out to 4½ games after loss to Bucs

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates' Richie Hebner couldn't have picked a better time to come out of his slump.

"I went 0-for-5-months," said Hebner after driving in four runs Wednesday night and leading Pittsburgh to a 6-1 victory over the floundering Philadelphia Phillies.

"Suddenly I love coming to the ballpark again," Hebner said. "Two weeks ago I was hoping to beat the Mets out of second place.

"Then, all of a sudden, it was nine games behind, eight games, seven games, and now here we are, right back in the thing."

Pittsburgh's 13th victory in 14 games has cut the Phils' National League East Division to just 4½ games. Sixteen games ago, Philadelphia, which has now lost 11 of its last 12, led the Pirates by 15½ games.

The Phillies' slump is reminiscent of 1964, when Philadelphia lost a 6½-game bulge when they dropped 10 in a row and the St. Louis Cardinals finished in front.

In other NL games Wednesday, the New York Mets bombed the Chicago Cubs 11-5, Montreal swept a doubleheader from St. Louis 7-5 and 8-7, Cincinnati blanked Houston 3-0, Atlanta nipped San Diego 3-1 in 10 innings and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 1-0 in 11 innings.

Hebner, batting .234 going into the game, slapped a two-run single in the second and drove a two-run double into the right field corner in the third to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

Jim Rooker held the Phillies to nine hits to pick up his 13th victory in 20 decisions, while Steve Carlton, 16-6, suffered the loss.

Reds 3, Astros 0

Gary Nolan and Rawley Eastwick combined for a four-hitter and Tony Perez and Johnny Bench blasted solo homers to give Cincinnati its victory over Houston. Nolan, 12-8, didn't allow an Astros runner to reach third base in the first seven innings. Eastwick came on in the eighth and picked up his 20th save of the season.

Giants 1, Dodgers 0, 11 innings

Chaffee JC's to sponsor tournament

The Chaffee Jaycees will host a softball tournament, September 18-25, at Harmon Field in Chaffee.

Tournament chairman is Paul Friga, Jaycee treasurer. All teams wishing to enter the tournament should contact Mr. Friga at 317 Davidson, Chaffee, Mo. His phone number is 887-6139. There will be an entrance fee of $35.00 per team. It is hoped that sixteen teams will enter this year's tournament.

Again this year as last, proceeds from the tournament along with the concession proceeds will go to the KFVS CEREBRAL PALSY TELETHON. The goal this year will be $1500.00. Last year this worthy project raised $1,000.00 for the telethon.

The Phillies' slump is reminiscent of 1964, when Philadelphia lost a 6½-game bulge when they dropped 10 in a row and the St. Louis Cardinals finished in front.

In other NL games Wednesday, the New York Mets bombed the Chicago Cubs 11-5, Montreal swept a doubleheader from St. Louis 7-5 and 8-7, Cincinnati blanked Houston 3-0, Atlanta nipped San Diego 3-1 in 10 innings and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 1-0 in 11 innings.

Hebner, batting .234 going into the game, slapped a two-run single in the second and drove a two-run double into the right field corner in the third to pace Pittsburgh's attack.

Jim Rooker held the Phillies to nine hits to pick up his 13th victory in 20 decisions, while Steve Carlton, 16-6, suffered the loss.

Reds 3, Astros 0

Gary Nolan and Rawley Eastwick combined for a four-hitter and Tony Perez and Johnny Bench blasted solo homers to give Cincinnati its victory over Houston. Nolan, 12-8, didn't allow an Astros runner to reach third base in the first seven innings. Eastwick came on in the eighth and picked up his 20th save of the season.

Giants 1, Dodgers 0, 11 innings

Chaffee JC's to sponsor tournament

The Chaffee Jaycees will host a softball tournament, September 18-25, at Harmon Field in Chaffee.

Tournament chairman is Paul Friga, Jaycee treasurer. All teams wishing to enter the tournament should contact Mr. Friga at 317 Davidson, Chaffee, Mo. His phone number is 887-6139. There will be an entrance fee of $35.00 per team. It is hoped that sixteen teams will enter this year's tournament.

Again this year as last, proceeds from the tournament along with the concession proceeds will go to the KFVS CEREBRAL PALSY TELETHON. The goal this year will be $1500.00. Last year this worthy project raised $1,000.00 for the telethon.

Faltering Royals lose again to Angels; but so do Oakland A's

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Three weeks ago the Kansas City Royals were in first place and apparently breezing to their first American League West title.

The Royals are still in first place. But their lead has dwindled from nine to five games over the surging Oakland A's and an ominous stillness has replaced the sound of 'ringing base hits.

"I've seen teams that have gone into slumps before, but not teams that are supposed to be good hitting, like us," sighed Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog Wednesday night after his Royals were blanked, 2-0, by the California Angels.

The only good news of the night was Chicago's come-from-behind 6-5 win over the A's, which prevented the Kansas City advantage from shrinking further.

It was the fourth straight loss and the ninth in 10 games for the Royals, who have managed just nine hits and one run in two games with the Angels.

And California hasn't exactly been throwing Nolan Ryan or Frank Tanana against Kansas City.

Gary Ross and Dick Drago followed Don Kirkwood's series-opening three-hitter by surrendering just six base hits Wednesday night.

"We have the right guys up all the time," moaned Herzog, observing that the Royals left seven runners on base. "I'd take three cheap hits in a row with no outs and take my chances, the rest of the way."

Adding to Herzog's worries was a sixth-inning injury to third baseman George Brett, who had to be carried off the field after striking shortstop Dave Chalk's knee while trying to break up a double play.

"He's getting x-rayed. But Dr. (Paul) Meyer said he thinks he'll be all right," said Herzog.

Before his exit, Brett rapped two hits, including a line shot off Ross' ankle in the fourth that forced the California starter out of the game.

Benton Aces host tourney

BENTON — The first Benton Aces Invitational Mens Softball Tournament will be held beginning tomorrow night at Benton Park. The tournament will run through Sunday afternoon.

Two teams are entered in the double-elimination tournament. Participating will be several members of the Semo Fastpitch Softball League, including the host Benton Aces, Oran, Scott City, Vanduser, New Hamburg Righter Trucking and the New Hamburg Blues. Also entered are the Sikeston All-Stars, the Eagles of Sikeston, Pepsi Cola of Flat River and the Alton A's.

Play gets underway at 7:00 Friday night. After three Friday evening games, action will continue all day Saturday and Sunday, with the finals beginning at 4:00 Sunday afternoon.

Little League meeting set for 7:00 tonight

Sikeston Little League commissioner Mike Foster has called a meeting for 7:00 p.m. tonight at the Sikeston Recreational Complex to discuss repair work to be done on the fields this fall in preparation for next year's play.

Coaches, managers and other interested persons are asked to attend the meeting. Foster said that the work needed to be done this fall includes reseeding of grass in the outfields.

The Terrific Trio is back to try once again

It was not an effort that would inspire, but the Terrific Trio managed to struggle their way through ten games last week. Dale "Bold Forb" Forbis and Stan "T-Bone" Hall tied for the best mark, hitting eight of ten. Charlie "El Chiefo" Francis slipped just a mite, hitting only five of ten. T-Bone was declared the winner (by T-Bone, at least) because he was 20 points closer to the actual scores than Bold Forb.

We'd like to take this opportunity to thank those who have mailed their predictions in, as has been done in past years. However, there is a good deal of bookkeeping involved in such ventures and we are, with help from area coaches, going to try to keep detailed statistics this season--thus forcing us to forego any outside help. (There is a rumor that the panel of "experts" was simply tired of being shown up.)

Now, to the business at hand:

ST. LOUIS CENTRAL AT CAPE CENTRAL--The big Saint Louie school travels south for a Thursday game, and two of the panel members think the unusual playing date will hurt them. Only T-Bone goes with last year's state basketball runners-up. You're in the wrong sport, Boney.

CHAFFEE AT DEXTER--Two out of three think that Dexter will be the first Northern School to fail to a Southern Division member. T-Bone, however, was convinced by the Bearcats' 34-8 mauling over Malden.

CHIEF: Chaffee by 7
BOLD FORB: Chaffee by 3

CHIEF: Jackson by 10
BOLD FORB: Jackson by 21
T-BONE: Jackson by 17

MALDEN AT KENNETT--Two of the area's lesser-talented squads square off at Kennett, and the whole panel picks the Indians. Why? Probably because the game's at Kennett.

CHIEF: Kennett by 7
BOLD FORB: Kennett by 5
T-BONE: Kennett by 4

PERRYVILLE AT STE. GENEVIEVE--Perryville, a first-game winner over Fredericktown last week, appears to be on the road back. "We hope they lose their road map next week, but this week we're with them all the way," says the panel.

CHIEF: Perryville by 7
BOLD FORB: Perryville by 1
T-BONE: Perryville by 6

POPLAR BLUFF AT GLENDALE--The panel wanted to skip Glendale this week. Three panel members picked the Mules to lose, to be stopped, even--but the Bluff City team actually had an easy time beating Fox last week. Everybody jumped on the bandwagon this time.

CHIEF: Bluff by 3
BOLD FORB: Bluff by 8

CHIEF: Hayti by 10
BOLD FORB: Hayti by 6
T-BONE: Hayti by 7

ILLMO-SCOTT CITY AT EAST PRAIRIE--The Rams are picked to join the Southern Division wars with a solid whipping of last year's champion East Prairie team. "The T-Bone rides again," shouts Stan.

CHIEF: I-SC by 10
BOLD FORB: I-SC by 9
T-BONE: I-SC by 8

ST. THOMAS AQUINAS AT SIKESTON--The Bulldog defense made some believers last week as all three panel members went once again with Sikeston. The Bulldogs may not score much off this tough Aquinas defense, but Aquinas won't do much damage, either.

CHIEF: Sikeston by 6
BOLD FORB: Sikeston by 7
T-BONE: Sikeston by 12

Statistics will appear in the paper next week if we can get a bit more cooperation from the coaches. Only six of seventeen mailed their stats in this week, and if we don't have their statistics, the players can't be recognized, thereby hurting their chances at All-District and All-State honors.

Some of the best performances racked up last week were: 249 yards rushing on 39 carries by East Prairie's Danny Johnson, 136 on 17 tries by Sikeston's James Wilder, and 109 yards on 17 carries by Malden's Jim Kilgore. Dexter's Lance Espey had the best passing night, throwing for over 160 yards.

ROYALS vs. PHILLIES

NEW YORK (AP) — If the first-half major league standings reflect the best teams, the 1976 World Series could find the Kansas City Royals facing the Philadelphia Phillies.

At the All-Star break, Kansas City had the best record in the American League, 51-31, while leading the AL West. The New York Yankees were best in the East with 50-31.

Cards picked to win by AP

NEW YORK (AP) — Now if Commissioner Pete Rozelle wants to make things really interesting in the National Football Conference, he would shift a few teams around and create three red-hot races instead of the single one the NFC figures to have.

You can forget about the Central and West Divisions. Those two belong to Minnesota and Los Angeles, who will spend the regular season tuning up for the playoffs. But the East Division, ah, that's another story.

There are three super teams in the NFC East and room for only two of them in the playoffs, assuming no other division sneaks off with the wild card berth. So, who do you leave out — Dallas, Washington or St. Louis?

Well, you can't write off Super Bowl finalist Dallas, and St. Louis seems solid. So that leaves Washington's Over The Hill Gang, over the hill.

When they've all completed the 14-week war, here's the way things ought to look in the NFC:

EAST DIVISION
St. Louis Cardinals
Dallas Cowboys
Washington Redskins
New York Giants
Philadelphia Eagles

CENTRAL DIVISION
Minnesota Vikings
Detroit Lions
Chicago Bears
Green Bay Packers

WEST DIVISION
Los Angeles Rams
San Francisco 49ers
Atlanta Falcons
New Orleans Saints
Seattle Seahawks

Now, the first question is how you can write off a team like the Redskins, whose off-season free-agent shopping added running backs John Riggins and Calvin Hill as well as tight end Jean Fugett?

Well, it's easy when you remember that Hill has a questionable knee, injured wide receiver Charley Taylor is out for the year and the quarterback job still is in the aging hands of somewhat fragile Billy Kilmer.

Don't misunderstand. The 'Skins are good. But the Cowboys and Cardinals just seem a little better.

St. Louis' offense is still led by scatback Terry Metcalf, fullback Jim Otis, the NFC rushing king, wide receiver Mel Gray, who has speed to burn, and quarterback Jim Hart.

It was the defense that needed work and new faces like John Zook and Marvin Upshaw in the line, Al Beauchamp at linebacker and Mike Sensibaugh at safety should shore it up.

Coach Tom Landry has done a minimal amount of tinkering with the Cowboys' Super Bowl cast. And if Dallas went that far a year ago with 11 rookies, the Cowboys should be even better this time.

The surprise team in the NFC East could be the New York Giants, who have a new look in the backfield with bulldozing Larry Csonka at fullback and an exciting rookie in fleet Gordon Bell. The young defense looked solid during the exhibition season but this team is living in the wrong division to hope for any real progress in the standings.

It has been 10 years since Philadelphia had a winning NFL team. This will be No. 11. New coach Dick Vermeil may get some help from new faces Manny Sistrunk on the defensive line and Ed George on the offensive line, but it won't be nearly enough.

The loss of free agent wide receiver John Gilliam to Atlanta creates some passing problems for Minnesota. But they are nothing that quarterback Fran Tarkenton, who continues his assault on the NFL record book, can't solve.

Rookie Sammy White from Grambling has inherited Gilliam's wide receiver job and Brent McClanahan has moved in at running back, replacing Ed Marinaro, another free agent who skipped to the New York Jets. But Tarkenton still has Chuck Foreman, a hugely talented receiver and runner. So you needn't worry about the Vikes.

Detroit appears spotty and can look forward to an eighth straight second-place finish behind Minnesota. The Lions will use Joe Reed at quarterback and start Dexter Bussey and rookie Lawrence Gaines as his running mates.

Chicago may start improving with young Bob Avellini at quarterback. The Bears have an All-Pro in Wally Chambers anchoring their defensive line and will win more than they have but not nearly enough to challenge the top two teams.

Atlanta has a high-quality young passer in Steve Bartkowski and hopes the return of Claude Humphrey will bolster the defense. But the Falcons still have plenty of holes and third place seems the most they can accomplish.

Sr. citizens to be admitted free

Senior citizens can attend all this year's Sikeston High School athletic events free, high school principal Bob Buchanan announced Wednesday.

Persons 60 and over can pick up the free pass at the Heritage House. The pass must be presented at the gate for admission to the event, Buchanan said.

This is the first year for SHS to sponsor the program. "These people (the senior citizens) have supported our athletic programs throughout the years," Buchanan said, adding that they deserve a little special treatment now.

Tomorrow night's home opener against St. Thomas Aquinas of Florissant will be Mothers Night at Public School Stadium. Mothers of the Bulldog players will be honored before the game. This will be the fifth year in a row that the team has honored mothers. SHS has compiled a 4-0 record in the four previous Mothers Night outings.

Television premiere week to begin Sept. 20

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television's "premiere week" of first-run shows for the week of Sept. 20 will have two guest stars — President Ford and Jimmy Carter. Their arrival was expected, but the hour of it was uncertain.

That was resolved Wednesday when the League of Women Voters, sponsors of three "debates" Ford and Carter will have, set 9:30-11 p.m. EDT next Thursday as the time for Round One in the talking matches.

The networks and public TV say they'll carry Thursday's debate live. But the debate forced the networks to make hasty changes in the seven-program schedule they'd carefully concocted for Sept. 23.

The changes actually are two-fold, one for the East and Midwest, the other for Western areas, where the Ford-Carter show will be seen from 6:30 to 8 p.m., theoretically leaving three prime hours to fill.

The original Sept. 23 schedule had "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Barney Miller" and a two-hour "Streets of San Francisco" on ABC, the "Waltons" and a two-hour "Hawaii Five-O" on CBS, and the new "Gemini Man" and a two-hour premiere of the new "Best Sellers" mini-series on NBC.

The only thing of which you can be certain now is that on the networks, Thursday's Great Debate will precede entertainment in the West and follow it in the East. Check local listings.

ABC says its Thursday night entertainment on Sept. 23 now will be "Kotter," "Barney Miller" and the new Tony Randall comedy series, the premiere of the last having been moved up from Sept. 30.

That'll leave 90 minutes of prime time programming to be filled in the West. ABC says its affiliates there will do that with local shows.

And it says its two-hour "Streets of San Francisco" now will premiere nationally in hour-length episodes on Sept. 30 and Oct. 7.

NBC says it is bumping its premiere of "Best Sellers" from the Sept. 23 roster — no new date has been set — to make room for Ford-Carter.

It says in the East and Midwest, the night will start with "Gemini Man" at 7:30-8:30 p.m. EDT.

SeMo U. plays to open Sept. 30

CAPE GIRARDEAU — John Guare's "The House of Blue Leaves" will be the first of four major stage productions during the 1976-77 University Theatre season at Southeast Missouri State University.

Guare's sometimes wacky, sometimes sad play, which won the New York Theatre Critics Award for the Best American Play of 1971, will open on Sept. 30 and continue Oct. 1 and 2 and 7-9.

The initial activity of the University Theatre for this school year, however, will come Friday night with the showing of "Mildred Pierce," a 1945 movie with Joan Crawford.

Four other films from the past will make up the '76-77 University Theatre Cinema series. They will be shown on Oct. 22, Oct. 29, Jan. 14 and April 1.

Other stage productions on the University Theatre schedule are "The Crucible," by Arthur Miller, Dec. 2-4 and 9-11; "Two Gentlemen of Verona," a musical adaptation by Guare and Mel Shapiro, Feb. 16-19 and 23-26; and "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" by Edward Albee, April 21-23 and 28-30.

All productions will be presented in Rose Theatre of Grauel Language Arts Building at Southeast Missouri State. The films will also be shown in Rose Theatre.

Season coupons, which entitle the purchaser to a reserved seat at each stage production as well as free admission to all films, recently went on sale at the University Theatre box office. The cost for non-students is $6 each, a savings of more than 50 per cent over individual admission prices.

Orders may be placed by mail, telephone or in person.

What's the law?
The case of the invisible illness

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Gloria was 47 years of age and could still draw whistles. What she couldn't draw was a paycheck. She suffered constantly from a severe pain in the back, which was largely in her head, and thus was unable to hold a job.

A hypochondriac who didn't enjoy poor health, Gloria applied for disability payments under Social Security. Turned down, she took the matter to court.

"Believe me," she told the judge, "I'm in terrible shape. If I was a horse, I'd be headed for the glue factory by now. I'm just an old nag."

"The truth of the matter is that Gloria is actually in better condition than most people are," responded a government attorney. "And while she does have a very minor back problem, it really doesn't hurt her as much as she thinks it does. For the most part, it's imaginary.

"Therefore, there's no real reason why Gloria can't work and there's no reason why she should collect disability payments."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you put Gloria out to pasture with disability payments?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a person with severe hypochondria might experience pain so intense that it would be totally disabling. And, he pointed out, if supported by competent evidence, such a person would be entitled to receive disability benefits under Social Security. In this case, concluded the judge, while Gloria's back problem might not disable a normal individual, to her it apparently was crippling.

STATE SENATOR

Speaks out on LAND USE:
"I am definitely opposed to Federal Land Use Controls or State Land Use Controls, and have appeared in opposition on several occasions. I have testified in Washington, D.C. against Floodplain Regulation, which is nothing more or less than Land Use regulation.
"Land Use is bad enough at the local level, where it is called Zoning; it is horrible at any higher level.
"There are efforts now being made to inflict more and more Governmental control over property rights of individual citizens, in the name of the "Public Interest"
"At a recent meeting we were told by one of the speakers that we never really owned our land, anyway ;that the land was still owned by the Government, and that we only acquired the right to use it; therefore the use could be dictated by the Government!
"After 200 years of private ownwership, we must resist this kind of thinking!"

"Believe me," she told the judge, "I'm in terrible shape. If I was a horse, I'd be headed for the glue factory by now. I'm just an old nag."

"The truth of the matter is that Gloria is actually in better condition than most people are," responded a government attorney. "And while she does have a very minor back problem, it really doesn't hurt her as much as she thinks it does. For the most part, it's imaginary.

"Therefore, there's no real reason why Gloria can't work and there's no reason why she should collect disability payments."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you put Gloria out to pasture with disability payments?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a person with severe hypochondria might experience pain so intense that it would be totally disabling. And, he pointed out, if supported by competent evidence, such a person would be entitled to receive disability benefits under Social Security. In this case, concluded the judge, while Gloria's back problem might not disable a normal individual, to her it apparently was crippling.

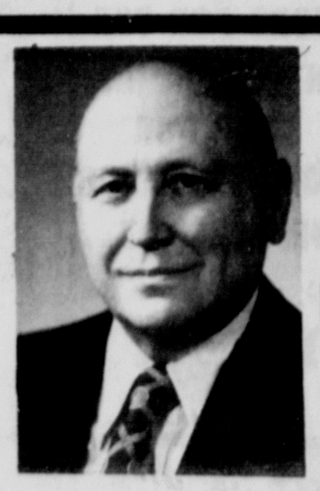
HOWARD C. TOOKE
Republican Candidate for
STATE SENATOR



Speaks out on LAND USE:

"I am definitely opposed to Federal Land Use Controls or State Land Use Controls, and have appeared in opposition on several occasions. I have testified in Washington, D.C. against Floodplain Regulation, which is nothing more or less than Land Use regulation.
"Land Use is bad enough at the local level, where it is called Zoning; it is horrible at any higher level.
"There are efforts now being made to inflict more and more Governmental control over property rights of individual citizens, in the name of the "Public Interest"
"At a recent meeting we were told by one of the speakers that we never really owned our land, anyway ;that the land was still owned by the Government, and that we only acquired the right to use it; therefore the use could be dictated by the Government!
"After 200 years of private ownership, we must resist this kind of thinking!"

VOTE FOR A MAN WHO HAS ALREADY OPPOSED FEDERAL LAND USE

Paid for by Tooke for Senate Committee; C.A. Hood, Chairman, Charles C. Leming, Treasurer, Box 783, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, September 9, the 253rd day of 1976. There are 113 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, the term "United States" became official in a ruling of the Second Continental Congress.

On this date:

In 1830, Charles Durant made early aviation history by flying in a balloon from New York City across the Hudson River to Perth Amboy, N.J.

In 1850, California was admitted to the Union as the 31st state.

In 1893, the First Lady, Mrs. Grover Cleveland, became the mother of a baby girl. It was the first time that a child had been born to a first lady in the White House.

In 1919, Boston police went on strike and Massachusetts Governor Calvin Coolidge ruled they would not be permitted to return to their jobs on grounds they had no right to strike and endanger public safety.

In 1926, the National Broadcasting Company was formed as a service of the Radio Corporation of America.

In 1946, the formal surrender of about one million Japanese soldiers took place in China at Nanking.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson signed auto and highway safety bills. Auto standards were to take effect on 1968 models.

Five years ago: More than one thousand prisoners revolted at Attica state prison in upstate New York, setting fires and taking 32 guards as hostages.

One year ago: A teachers' strike crippled the New York city school system.

Today's birthday: Former Republican Presidential candidate Alf Landon is 89.

Thought for today: Civilization cannot go back. Civilization must not stand still. — President Franklin Roosevelt.

Kristopher Heacox

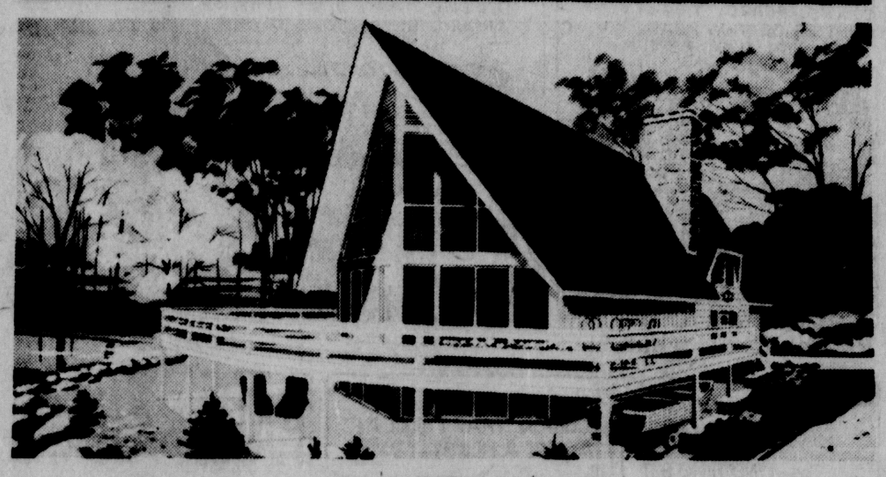
Celebrates 1st birthday

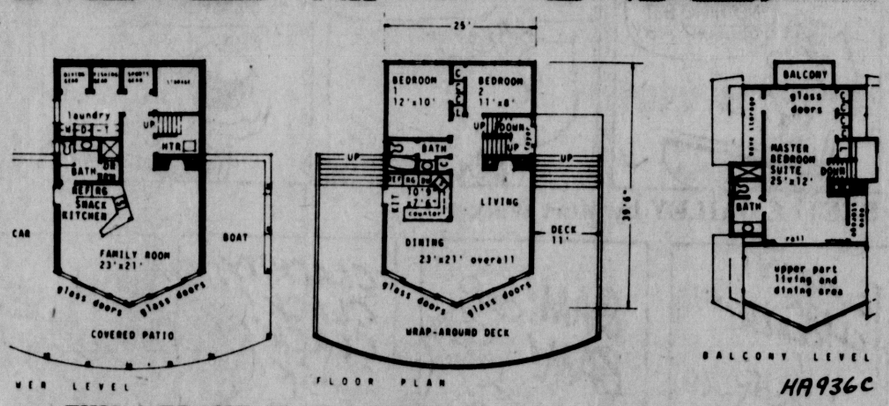
Kristopher John Heacox, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Heacox, 115 Linda Drive, celebrated his first birthday Aug. 24.

Guests included his grandmother, Mrs. Lillas Heacox; his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gary McKown; great-aunt, Mrs. Thelma Moss, great uncle and great-aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Humberto Negron; and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Schuerenberg and Rick, all of Sikeston, and his maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Parks, and great-aunt, Mrs. Doris Miller of Bloomfield.

The boy's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rabaduex of Bridgeton.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS





HA936C

THIS A-FRAME PLAN OFFERS more than year-round vacation living since an income unit option is available on the lower level. It has three bedrooms and three baths on three levels, with living, dining and family areas wrapped by decks and patio. Plan HA936C has 875 square feet on each main level, and 460 square feet on the balcony level. For further information write architect Lester Cohen, Rm. 505, 48 W. 48th St., New York, N.Y., 10036.

WHEN his putt went thataway instead of thisaway, Jeff Channon, 5-year-old entrant in an Elgin, Ill., junior golf program, expressed his reaction with some eloquent body language.

County Memorial Medical Center at Hayti.

An Ironton man received minor injuries in a single-vehicle accident at 3:20 p.m. Wednesday on Highway 72 two miles east of Patton.

The patrol said Willie Curtis Blevins, 21, lost control of his eastbound car on wet pavement on a curve and the vehicle ran off the road and overturned.

He was taken to Arcadia Valley Hospital at Pilot Knob.

A two- car collision at 7:10 a.m. Wednesday, half a mile east of Poplar Bluff on Highway 60, caused minor injuries to one of the drivers.

The patrol said an eastbound car driven by Vickie Lou McGowen, 19, of Poplar Bluff Route Three swerved to avoid a passing vehicle and collided nearly head on in the west lane with a car driven west by Melvin Eugene Kelm, 48, of Fisk.

The McGowen woman received minor injuries and was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A single- vehicle accident at 11:20 a.m. Wednesday on Route TT, half a mile south of Dudley, caused minor injuries to the driver.

The patrol said Vernon Leroy Yeley, age unavailable, of Poplar Bluff Route Four lost control of a southbound station wagon, which ran of the road and overturned.

Yeley was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Carter assured the council and those present that action would be taken immediately and requested that the council attend the meeting at which time he would present ultimatums to the department.

At present the city has seven officers who receive an estimated $65,0000 in salaries per year, according to Carter.

In other action Wednesday night Carter informed the council that the city has been notified it can make a pre-application for a community development block grant for another year. The city received $333,000 for this year's program for storm sewer improvement and housing rehabilitation.

Carter said public hearings will be advertised in the local newspaper pryor to the city's making its pre-application for $400,000 or more in funds.

The council authorized Carter to purchase a hot-patch machine for street work at a cost of $2,892. Revenue sharing funds will be used to pay for the road maintenance vehicle.

It was announced that Woods Aviation would be spraying the city tonight for mosquitoes.

In routine action, expenditures of $17,321.59 were approved and the Police judge's report of $552 in collected fines and a collector's report of $26,019.80 were made.

Kiwanis Club beats Rotary in softball

Flush with a 27-4 softball victory over the Rotary Club, the Sikeston Kiwanis Club Tuesday issued a challenge to any other service club.

The Kiwanis team beat the Rotary team last Thursday night. The challenge was issued at the Kiwanis meeting Tuesday night.

Club members were told that an installation of new officers and Ladies Night program will be held Oct. 5.

Festival starts Friday

MORLEY — The Miss Morley contest, scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Friday, will kick off the annual Morley Fall Festival activities this weekend.

Sponsored by the Morley Community Betterment Club, the festival will include a performance by a square dance club from Lutesville at 8 p.m. Friday, with Saturday's activities to begin with a parade at 11 a.m. Following the parade will be a country and western concert by the Country Travelers of Cape Girardeau from 2 to 4 p.m. A street dance is scheduled at 8:30 p.m.

Also featured will be an American Beauty Rides midway and food, games and contests both days.

Trouble light, cord is stolen

BELL CITY — A trouble light and cord were stolen from a home under construction on Highway 91 about halfway between Bell City and the Highway 25 intersection.

The Stoddard County Sheriff's Department reported the building, owned by Charles Knight, was entered by knocking out a window.

pocket when he entered the living room and shot him twice before dropping the pistol on the floor.

"I picked it up and shot him, and Mary grabbed the gun and it went off. I fell, couldn't get up and laid their about 25 hours. I was conscious at times, cold and I bled all night."

Testifying that he did not normally carry a gun, Pool said he did not know why he had taken the pistol to the home that morning.

"Mary had a temper and I guess she was upset when I asked her for the things", was his reply when asked what started the argument.

During cross-examination, Pool said he first knew that Mrs. Mitchell was dating Reeves about four weeks before the incident, adding that she continued to call him just about every day.

He denied leaving the home that morning and returning as Mrs. Kinsolving had testified, and said the law officers had misconstrued when he told them about shooting Mrs. Mitchell first. He also said he was wearing a coat when he was shot, that the coat had been placed in his car by someone and that he burned it following his release from the hospital two weeks later.

Pool said he did not know Mrs. Mitchell was shot in the back, saying he rememberred hearing only one shot as he fell to the floor. Sometime in the night during a conscious moment, Pool said he managed to reach a throw pillow laying on the floor with his legs, pulled it up and placed it under his head. However, he was not able to reach the stove thermostat or get to a telephone to call for help.

During closing arguments, Graham again outlined the state's contention that Pool went to the home with his gun, shot Reeves and Mrs. Mitchell shortly after arriving and sometime later shot himself twice in the chest.

Judge Craig gave the defense counsel until Sept. 24 to file a motion for a new trial.

Alton Dam complex gets okay from subcommittee

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — If Congress approves construction of a new lock and dam complex near Alton and charges user fees for barges plying the Mississippi River, barge firms simply will pass on the cost, a barge executive says.

A Senate Public Works subcommittee approved construction Wednesday of a new lock and dam near Alton if an independent study shows that repair of the current lock and dam is unfeasable. The subcommittee also approved user fees to recoup half the costs of building and maintaining federally subsidized waterways.

But Wallace Roller, service distribution representative at American Commercial Barge Lines, Alton, said of user fees, "We'd just pass it on."

Roller is unhappy because he believes the railroads are subsidized "twice as much as the barge lines." He says highway construction subsidizes truckers and use of public money to build airports subsidizes the airline industry.

"We do not pay taxes for using the river," Roller conceded, "but neither do the cities, neither do the people who use them for pleasure."

There is no question in Roller's mind that a new lock and dam should be built. Of the current facility, he said, "The lock walls are shifting, gates that close have gaps of two to three inches and water just pours through them.

"When they built it, all they did was drive wooden pilings and put the dam on top of them. The wood pilings must be getting weak and have just about had it after 38 years."

The congressional action broke a legislative logjam of more than a year on conflicting approaches to the future of Lock and Dam 26. The critical juncture on the river above St. Louis has been plagued recently with shipping tie-ups due to malfunctions of the present facilities.

The compromise package was successfully offered by Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., but Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said he would fight the subcommittee's decision in the full Public Works Committee and on the Senate floor if necessary.

"There is not one shred of evidence, not one professional engineering, economic or environmental judgment of any responsible federal department or agency—except the Corps—to support what the subcommittee has recommended," he said. Glennon Tockstein, vice chairman of the Sierra Club environmental group, is not nearly as concerned with user fees and wooden pilings as he is about the harm that could be done to the river.

"We want to know what the impact of increasing traffic on the river will be," said Tockstein. "Increasing traffic involves deepening the channel, building wing dikes, increased navigating, increased churning it (the river) up and increased pollution from spills."

Tockstein said the Izaak Walton League and the Sierra Club successfully sought a permanent federal injunction in September 1974, to block construction pending an environmental impact statement, which he said has not been drafted.

A user fee to "recoup about 50 per cent of the cost of maintaining this lock and dam "seems like a good idea" to Alton Mayor Paul Lenz.

Airport move suit is filed by Missouri U.S. Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Missouri's two U.S. Senators and a state agency filed suit Wednesday against a decision by U.S. Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. to locate a new St. Louis airport in Illinois.

The suit, filed in U.S. Distict Court here, seeks a restraining order against Coleman's approval last week of the applicaton by Columbia-Waterloo, Ill., for airport development money.

The action then asks for a preliminary injunction against the decision until all the legal questions it raises are resolved.

In the end the plaintiffs seek a court declaration that the decision was illegal and unconstitutional. No date has been set for a hearing in the case.

The Missouri-St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority, the two senators and many other have been seeking to modernize Lambert St. Louis International Airport, rather than open a new airport.

The suit charged that Coleman violated the laws governing airport development funds decisions and the National Environmental Policy Act.

First, it alleged Coleman cannot approve funds for a site opposed by a majority of the affected citizens and travelers. U.S. Senator Thomas F. Eagleton, one of the plaintiffs, said Wednesday "75 to 80 per cent of the people on the Missouri side are against it."

Second, it alleged Coleman did not give fair consideration to local interests, because he failed to consider the impact on Missouri of lost revenue if the Illinois airport is built.

The suit also mentioned the high cost to Missouri for necessary roads and bridges leading to the proposed airport.

The constitutional issued raised concerned the equal protection clause of the Constitution's 14th Amendment. The suit said Coleman violated the Constitution in suggesting equal representation on a new airport authority.

The Missouri authority estimated 90 per cent of the users of the proposed airport would be Missourians, and therefore Missouri should have 90 per cent representation on the proposed commission.

Under the decision, the new airport would not open before Jan. 1, 1992, unless a joint authority representing Illinois and Missouri equally is created, in which case operations could begin by 1987 or sooner.

An Ironton man received minor injuries in a single-vehicle accident at 3:20 p.m. Wednesday on Highway 72 two miles east of Patton.

The patrol said Willie Curtis Blevins, 21, lost control of his eastbound car on wet pavement on a curve and the vehicle ran off the road and overturned.

He was taken to Arcadia Valley Hospital at Pilot Knob.

A two- car collision at 7:10 a.m. Wednesday, half a mile east of Poplar Bluff on Highway 60, caused minor injuries to one of the drivers.

The patrol said an eastbound car driven by Vickie Lou McGowen, 19, of Poplar Bluff Route Three swerved to avoid a passing vehicle and collided nearly head on in the west lane with a car driven west by Melvin Eugene Kelm, 48, of Fisk.

The McGowen woman received minor injuries and was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A single- vehicle accident at 11:20 a.m. Wednesday on Route TT, half a mile south of Dudley, caused minor injuries to the driver.

The patrol said Vernon Leroy Yeley, age unavailable, of Poplar Bluff Route Four lost control of a southbound station wagon, which ran of the road and overturned.

Yeley was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Carter assured the council and those present that action would be taken immediately and requested that the council attend the meeting at which time he would present ultimatums to the department.

At present the city has seven officers who receive an estimated $65,0000 in salaries per year, according to Carter.

In other action Wednesday night Carter informed the council that the city has been notified it can make a pre-application for a community development block grant for another year. The city received $333,000 for this year's program for storm sewer improvement and housing rehabilitation.

Carter said public hearings will be advertised in the local newspaper pryor to the city's making its pre-application for $400,000 or more in funds.

The council authorized Carter to purchase a hot-patch machine for street work at a cost of $2,892. Revenue sharing funds will be used to pay for the road maintenance vehicle.

It was announced that Woods Aviation would be spraying the city tonight for mosquitoes.

In routine action, expenditures of $17,321.59 were approved and the Police judge's report of $552 in collected fines and a collector's report of $26,019.80 were made.

Kiwanis Club beats Rotary in softball

Flush with a 27-4 softball victory over the Rotary Club, the Sikeston Kiwanis Club Tuesday issued a challenge to any other service club.

The Kiwanis team beat the Rotary team last Thursday night. The challenge was issued at the Kiwanis meeting Tuesday night.

Club members were told that an installation of new officers and Ladies Night program will be held Oct. 5.

Airport move suit is filed by Missouri U.S. Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Missouri's two U.S. Senators and a state agency filed suit Wednesday against a decision by U.S. Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. to locate a new St. Louis airport in Illinois.

The suit, filed in U.S. Distict Court here, seeks a restraining order against Coleman's approval last week of the applicaton by Columbia-Waterloo, Ill., for airport development money.

The action then asks for a preliminary injunction against the decision until all the legal questions it raises are resolved.

In the end the plaintiffs seek a court declaration that the decision was illegal and unconstitutional. No date has been set for a hearing in the case.

The Missouri-St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority, the two senators and many other have been seeking to modernize Lambert St. Louis International Airport, rather than open a new airport.

The suit charged that Coleman violated the laws governing airport development funds decisions and the National Environmental Policy Act.

First, it alleged Coleman cannot approve funds for a site opposed by a majority of the affected citizens and travelers. U.S. Senator Thomas F. Eagleton, one of the plaintiffs, said Wednesday "75 to 80 per cent of the people on the Missouri side are against it."

Second, it alleged Coleman did not give fair consideration to local interests, because he failed to consider the impact on Missouri of lost revenue if the Illinois airport is built.

The suit also mentioned the high cost to Missouri for necessary roads and bridges leading to the proposed airport.

The constitutional issued raised concerned the equal protection clause of the Constitution's 14th Amendment. The suit said Coleman violated the Constitution in suggesting equal representation on a new airport authority.

The Missouri authority estimated 90 per cent of the users of the proposed airport would be Missourians, and therefore Missouri should have 90 per cent representation on the proposed commission.

Under the decision, the new airport would not open before Jan. 1, 1992, unless a joint authority representing Illinois and Missouri equally is created, in which case operations could begin by 1987 or sooner.
